Ducemus Volume Ten

Clover Hill High School
13900 Hull Street Road
Midlothian, Virginia 23113

Produced by Jeffrey Creech, Teresa Campbell, Jackie Stauffer and the 1982 Ducemus staff.

As Always "A Year Full

Over the years, the Ducemus has been a postcard, a machine, a locker, a calculator, and even intangible things such as spirit, freedom, a point of view, and a new beginning. This year the Ducemus will also represent a new beginning, the beginning of our next decade. Think of it as a history book, a sort of class; one with no quizzes, tests or homework, but one grade — YOU: The Cavalier. Can we continue to achieve the accomplishments of our past ten years? Use your new "history book" to reflect on the possibilities of a bright and brilliant future . . . For an example, look at our bright and brilliant past.

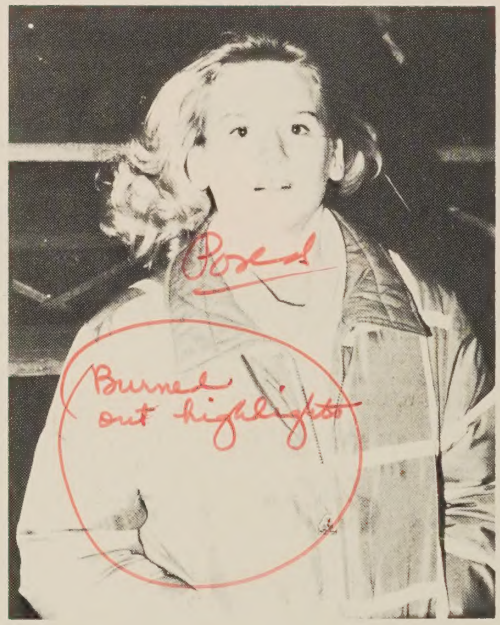

Some of us got it . . . Todd Haymens stricks another one of his unusual poses, this time on his daily locker route.

Tenion so thick . . . When the game is a victory-in-pocket Lauren Steadman is as roudy as the rest of the crowd, but if the score is tied she shows "silent enthusiasm.

Pocahontas? Anything goes on wacky day when Ann Furr dresses up as an indian to provoke stairs from the Monacan Chiefs.

Hold on — I'm broke! . . . Jack Horner sheds his last dollar to Mr. Pearman in order to relieve his past due gambling debts.

The epitomy of success? Lynn Morgan, Robin Brooks, Mike Pausic, Cheryl Duff, Jim Weynand and Sandy Skipwith take a well deserved time out to pose after the fall induction for the National Honor Society.

of Tradition and Innovation"

Enthusiasm is the name of the game . . . Chip Trebour is out to prove that there is more to a football game than the sports action.

Our own Jolly Green Giant . . . Kim Riely towers over the typical, insane crowd in order to get a better view.

"It's that time of day when you can say, come on — Let's head for the bus stop. You know the best is coming your way."

Time out! A pensive Greg Kieper takes time out from the usual ruckus of high school life in order to do a little learning.

That Was Then, This is Now

In the beginning Clover Hill High School was an idea. Dr. Roy A. Alcorn, Division Superintendent, saw this dream and visualized reality. With a spirit of cooperation by the Boards and a sincere desire for its conception, Clover Hill was taken to the drawing board. On February 29, 1968 the Chesterfield Board of Supervisors gave its approval for the school's planning and construction by granting permission to the School Board to seek a suitable site and hire McIlroy and Parris to serve as architects.

The dream came true. Clover Hill High School was opened August, 1972 with an enrollment of 900 students from grades six through twelve. This school was one of the first in the area to employ the "open" education system. Up until 1976 Clover Hill had very few walls to cut down on classroom noise or to give much needed privacy. As of 1982 there was still serious talk of closing in all classrooms.

Structurally, Clover Hill has undergone few changes in the last ten years; walls, trailers, and lockers being the only additions during the last decade. A bond issue, voted on in 1981, made way for an addition to the math and science area that will also house the business area.

The student body has been under constant change. The first year saw the elimination of the sixth graders — while the enrollment listings grew longer and longer. In 1979 the enrollment climbed to a record 1,800, and the seventh graders had to be moved to trailers near the tennis courts. Later that same year Monacan High School and Swift Creek Middle School were completed, and the next year 700 Cavaliers were absent from our ranks. 1980 was Clover Hills' first year as a true high school. Our tenth year's enrollment matched the schools capacity of 1200.

Always the common denominator has been the Cavalier, not the building itself. The SCA steering committee decided on such things as: the school's colors, motto, crest and the name sake. Our traditions are many, varied and always changing to suit our needs. The Ring Dance made way for the Ring Ceremony in 1980, and the Turkey bowl was added to the list of activities in 1979.

As Cavaliers, we have achieved honors in many varied activities: Baseball — 1978 State Championship, Basketball — 1981 State Tournament and Sportsmanship award, and Band — State Championship in 1980. Not only have we excelled in athletic prowness and musical abilities, but we also made a name for ourselves in 1973 when we took State honors for Drama. Plus various art and choral students have taken their place in the history book of our school.

But our history book will continue onward. Other awards will be won, and other structual changes in the building will be made. But even as the faces of the student body graduate and move on, the Cavalier — the spirit of Clover Hill — will remain the same.

BATTLEZONE

REFLECTIONS

A year can be spent in many different ways: working, studying, or having fun. Most Cavaliers seem to prefer the latter by a long shot! Spring fever, fall fever, snow fever, exam fever . . . really come into play at their appropriate times of year. But then again, they always have. Our favorite activities change year by year, just like fashion trends. Any school undergoes transition, but Clover Hill prefers extremes. From fifties to punk to prep, from chess to video games, and from skiing to skateboarding — we've tried it all! Friday night football games, powder puff, and Homecoming still remain favorite activities, and wacky day has become a year to year contest of insanity. Through sheer experience in these matters seniors are the leaders in the whole mutiny against learning. Unsponsored activities such as beach day, sunglasses day, and of course, senior skip day are topped only by the sponsored activities like senior take over day, senior picnic, the senior banquet, and GRADUATION. But one day even the freshman will be seniors, and they will have been trained by the best and the laziest of them all — the class of 1982.

HOMECOMING 1981

Head 'em off!

They differ to be different . . . Lauren Steadman and Michelle Cashwell refuse to sucomb to the other seniors Toga Party antics.

The war is over! Ann Furr tries fruitlessly to convince Sarah Loper that her Vietnam strategics aren't necessary anymore, but who would believe someone in that football get up.

Wacky day foreign style . . . Suvi Sivuranta is trying to get Andres Castro in the mood . . . for wacky day!

Insanity Finds Its Own Day

If wacky day was a students first day at Clover Hill, he would probably be under extensive psychiatric care for the next few years. This quite memorable occasion is one of Clover Hill's most cherished traditions, and Homecoming just wouldn't be the same if it didn't consist of this old time favorite. For the past ten years the students at Clover Hill have been getting wackier and wackier, and this year we came out wilder, funkier, and weirder than ever. Students and teachers turned out in their finest creations. Punk rock fashions were the newest trend, and of course, some of the old favorites were preferred. Little girls with teddy bears, nerds, boys dressed as girls, and balloon covered students bespeckled the halls and classrooms as just about everyone showed their spirit.

Hands Off! Lisa Gerold and Kelly Meyers have laid claim to their main man, Brian Blalock, who doesn't seem too unhappy with the arrangement.

I don't do windows! Jackie Stauffer moonlights as the newest volunteer for the custodial staff.

Up, up and away! Does Gene Sabater really think he can fool us with his newest "get away" creations?

Fashion Connoisseurs? "Ms. Lawson and Mrs. Kaempf please don't tell us that is your every day attire?!??"

I won?!? Regina Shires humbly accepts the admiration of her peers as she is crowned the winner of the Miss Nature Queen Pageant.

Go For It! Michelle Cooley manages to elude all senior attackers and scores six points for the junior cause.

Number One! Tony Curtis proclaims the standing of the class of '82. And who would argue with a girl like that!?

Seniors Romp Juniors 14-6

Run like the wind . . . Debbie Chaney expresses her feelings of dismay as she charges through the tough senior defense line.

Team Spirit . . . Seniors portray their pride in all they do.

Which way to the shower? Scott Hartman seems to be out of the action for the day now that he had a run-in with a senior cheerleader.

Get Tough . . . The senior coach, Clark Barnes, tries to make sure the game goes without a possibility of defeat.

Powderpuff 1982

Who goes there? The seniors know that they have to keep up a good guard from a junior attack.

"Hey, bring in some more shaving cream." David Rackley and Jeff Compton want to make sure that the junior now in their clutches does not get away.

We've got it ... The senior girls celebrate after scoring again increasing the score 13-6.

Once again the seniors came out on top; although the juniors put up a good fight. It wasn't easy for the juniors defensive line to push back the senior's large and powerful offensive line.

During the first part of the game the juniors thought they had it made as they lead the game with one touch down. The seniors were determined to whip 'em, knowing this was their last chance to prove their superiority in football.

Their determination finally paid off along with long gruelling practice time after school. The seniors, with a burst of confidence and skill, turned the tables on the bewildered juniors. As time ran out the seniors managed to claim the victory by a "narrow" escape of eight points.

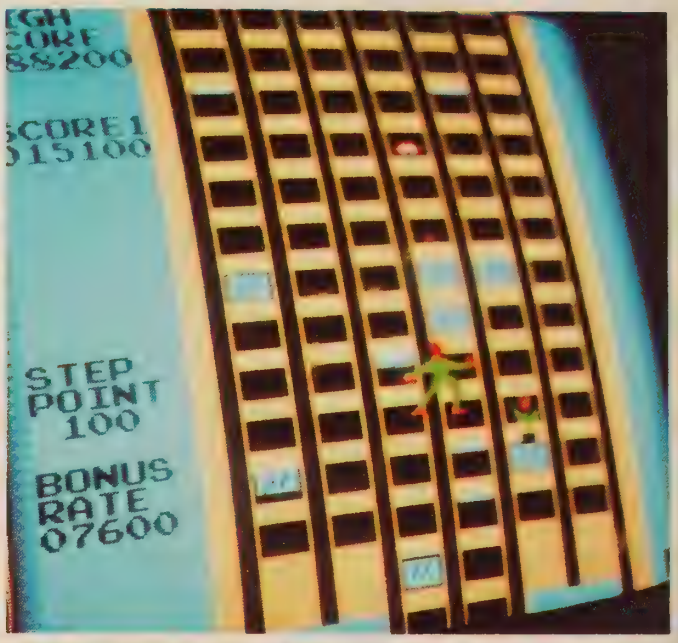

Although the juniors were soundly beaten, they learned enough to hopefully conquer next years juniors, and this years seniors can retire with new assurance of the superiority.

Fun and Games After Hours

When the white stuff starts falling in this area, radios begin listening for the school closings. When "Chesterfield" is finally called, the Boston Area hills become mini ski resorts. Complete with a bonfire at the top. Snowball fights replace classroom boredom and sledding is the only way to get around. Cavaliers get so ammen to snow that you'd think the ground was covered all year. But, alas, we don't get too much snow around these parts.

So we have to depend on other activities to run after hours fun. The natural choice is the craze across the nation — video games. Where else but on an Asteroids game can you control the galaxy for the mere price of a quarter? Everyone, Asteroids, Star Castle and Pac Man were the popular games, and "Pac Man Fever" now has a place right alongside "Saturday Fever" in popular student discourse.

MIDWAY
OMEGA RACE

The same . . . But different.

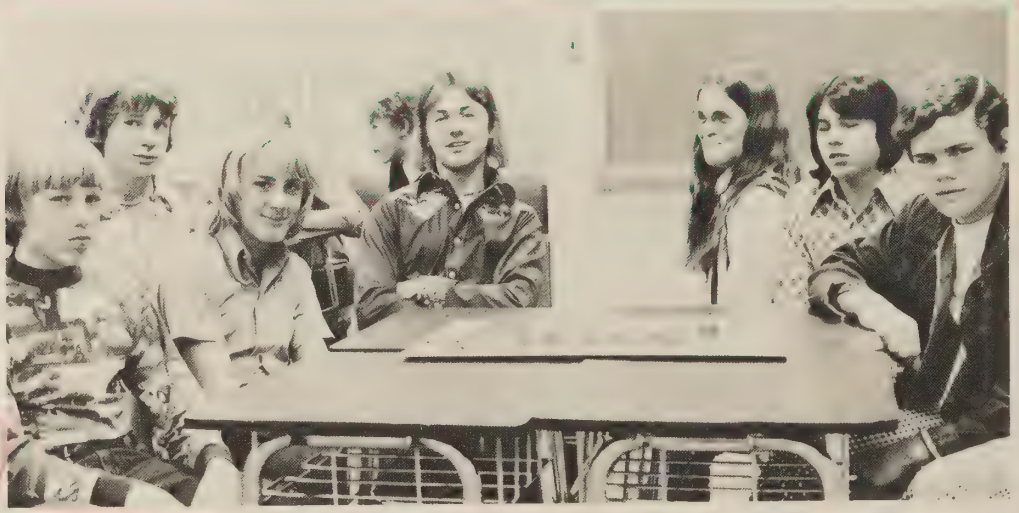

Some things never change. Clover Hill always will be a fine institution for learning. The food will always be the object for jokes. Teachers will always end up teaching on a "snow" Saturday. Exams will always mean too much work and work done too late. Students will always forget pencils, pens, books, homework (anything needed in class) that are in their "locker". There will always be one good loud fight in the cafeteria. Students will always dress for the times.

Besides from those common denominators some things will change. Our classrooms will eventually be closed in. Senior exam privileges will disappear. Computers will take a more important stand in our life. The style of dress, the faces, the memories, the accomplishments — all will change.

Through even the most drastic transitions, this tenth anniversary, or our silver anniversary, the spirit of cooperation, the spirit of the Cavalier will always be there.

1972 — 1982

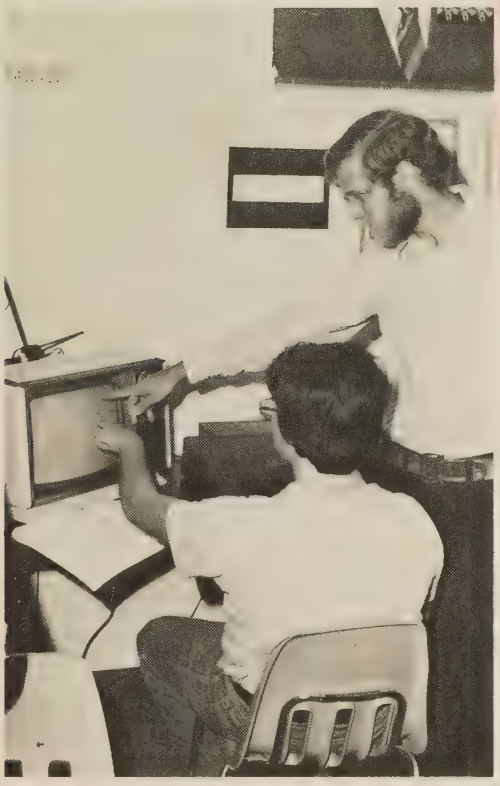

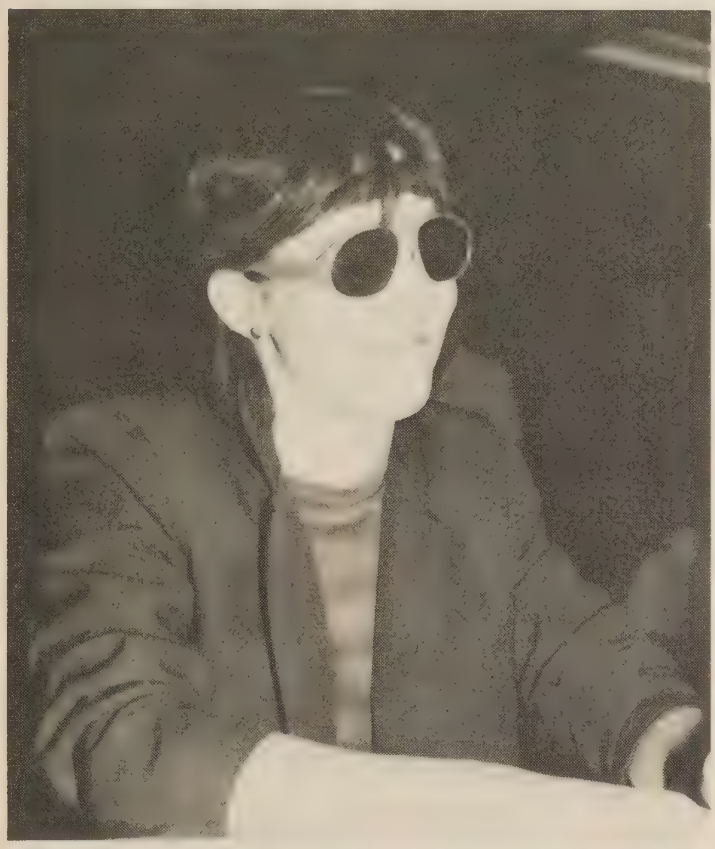

GOING FOR A RIDE

In the mid-seventies a real "moving" hobby became a reging fad. Double kick tails and Logan boards are the flo-motion park became household words. Of course skateboarding is what we are talking about, and even though the rage is calming it left behind a few diehard fanatics.

"After flo-motion closed Dwayne and I left with streets and driveways to ride on, and that becomes boring fast," commented Keith Crawford. Set out to build a curved ramp were Dwayne Starling, Russ Bahorsky, and Keith Crawford.

"We put a lot of wood, hardwork and Saturdays into this ramp, but now its a great place to ride", said Dwayne Starling proudly. Now the fellows can enjoy their ramp at the end of a concrete driveway. "Its not California, we would rather be able to skate and surf."

VALLEY PEOPLE ON THE HILL?"

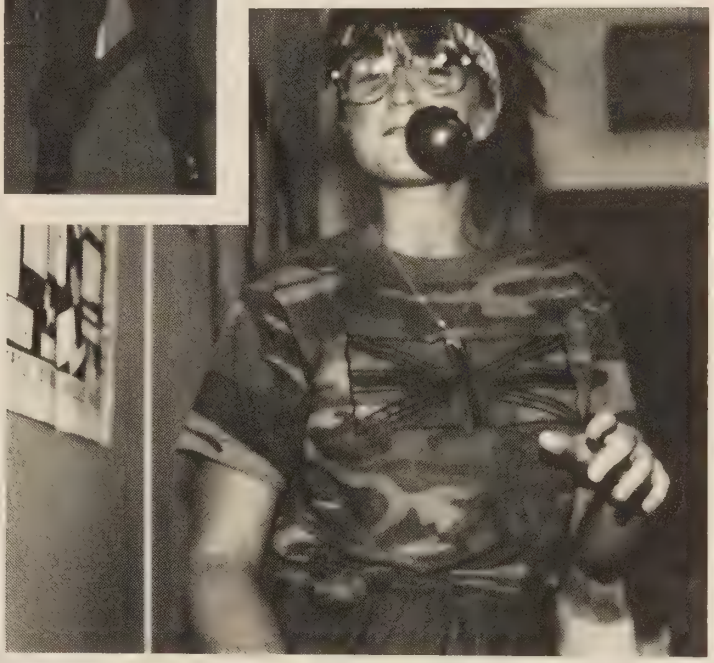

Even before Frank Zappa released his daughter, The Valley Girl, a metamorphisis was becoming evident at Clover Hill. The coming of the PUNKS. Now "Punk" in a literal sense is a young ruffian — of course we are talking about the strange attire prevalent in the halls of our aging institution.

"Punkers" wear strange colors like orange and pink at the same time. They favor sunglasses that make it impossible to see what in the world is going on around them. Accesories such as headbands or bandanas are prominent.

These punkrock freaks are harmless enough — unless they try to sell you a wardrobe.

Civil War Flashback
Did you Know? . . .

In this Ducemus anniversary issue, we have been examining issues and events that comprise ten years of CHHS history. However, we would be remiss in believing that only the occurences of these ten years have a bearing on our Cavalier heritatge. Other occurences, though they may have taken place years before this school was even built, deserve nevertheless to be noted here, as they add luster to an already brilliant past. One such event occured over a hundred years ago, in fact. The time was early April, 1865.

On April 1st, the Confederate defense lines around Petersburg were broken by Union tropps troops at Dinwiddie County.

Lee, realizing that Petersburg was doomed, ordered its evacuation and advised President Jefferson Davis that Richmond must also be abonded as well. During the night of April 2nd the massive retreat began.

The army retreated in two columns. Generals Lee and Longstreet retrated through southeastern Chesterfield County. Meanwhile the Richmond garrision under General Ewell headed toward Manchester over the Richmond-Amelia Road, later remaned Hull Street Road. Both were to converge in Chesterfield and then head south to N.C., where they would hopefully meet up with other Confederate forces and then continue the war.

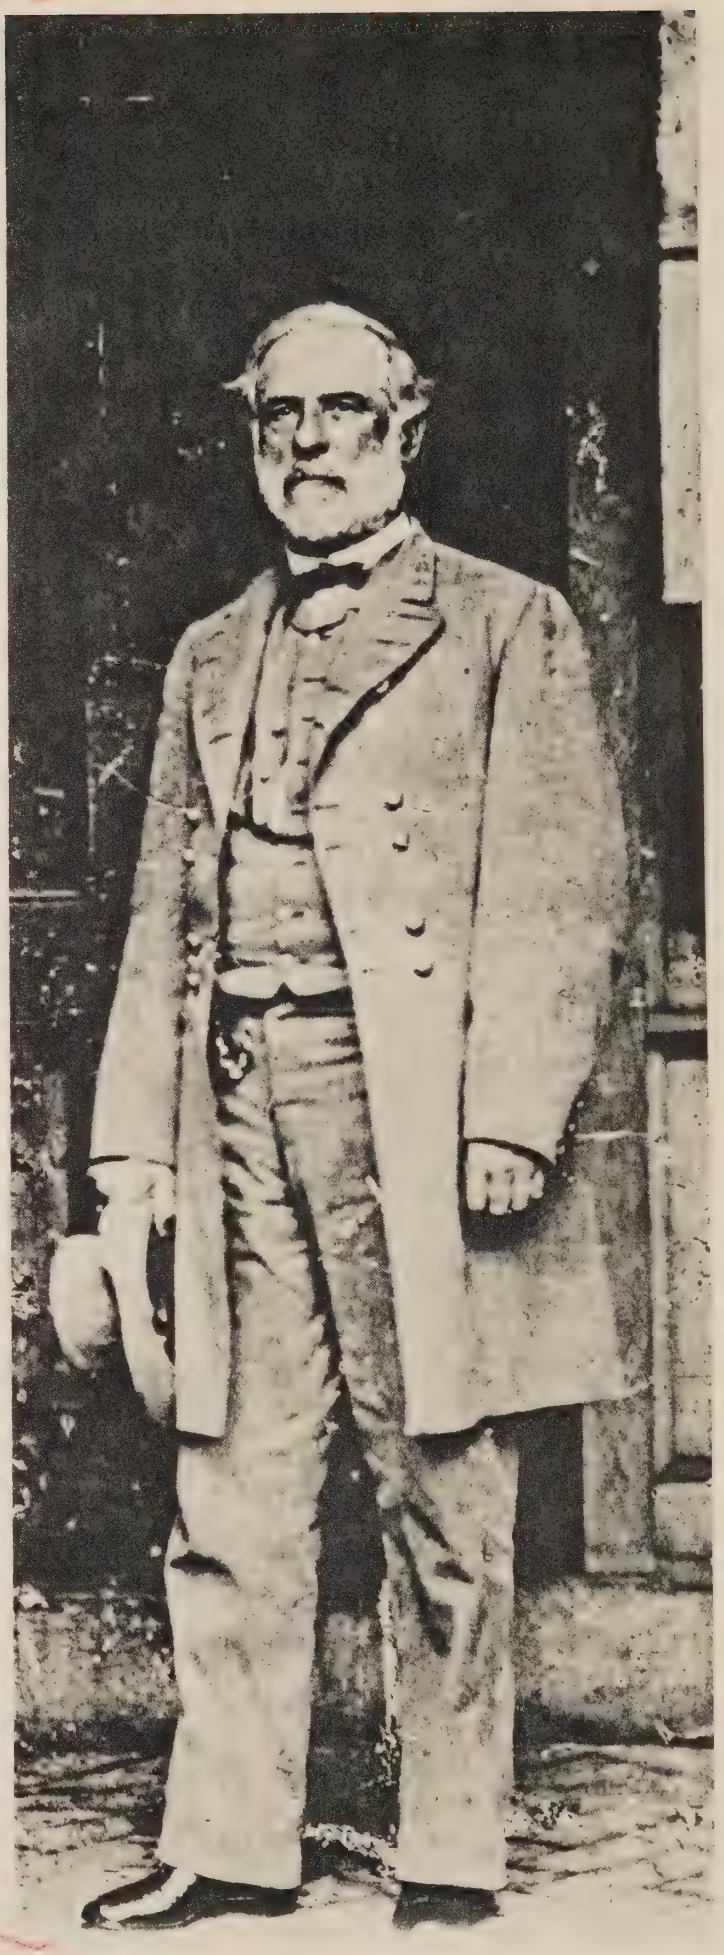

Judge James Cox who lived nearby, heard of the presence of General Lee. Judge Cox was one of the county's leading citizens, having presided on the Virginia seccion convention and served as Speaker of the House of Delagates. He sent one of his sons to the Confederate encampment to invite Lee and his staff to luncheon. The General accepted, and his party arrived at Judge Cox's statly English style mansion that afternoon.

The officers were met by Kate Cox, the judges daughter, who ushered them inside. She spoke briefly with Lee as the midday meal was prepared. "General", she said, "we will win. you will join general Johnston in North Carolina, and together you will win." Lee smiled and said "Whatever happens, no men ever fought better than mine." With that they were summoned to dinner.

Despite the food shortages plaguing the south, the judge laid an abundant table. Meats, vegetables, fruits and jellies were plentiful. Throughout the meal Kate kept close by General Longstreet. He had suffered a painful arm wound and had yet to regain the full use of it. As a result Kate had to cut his meat for him.

When the meal was finished, Lee, Longstreet and their staffs bid the Cox family farewell and mounted their horses. Kate, in her book My Confederate Girlhood, later noted "General Lee on horseback was a most wonderful sight . . . going down the lane, his gray cape lined with red, thrown back from his shoulders." The next day Lee's army decamped and headed for Amelia Station, on a journey that would bring them to Appomattox, and final surrender, five days later.

*Many events have combined to comprise our Cavalier heritage. Some are readily rememberable: dances, athletic events, theatrical productions, etc . . . Others are not so easily recalled, though, such as an obscure dinner held in the midst of a nations dying days, at a plantation in Chesterfield County, a plantation named Clover Hill.

Mrs. Julia Bowman, now in her second year of teaching here at Clover Hill started a tradition that will go down in our history as one of the most embrasing things that could ever happen to a geometery student. The dreded Easter Hat contest. It counts as a test grade — and the "winner" in each class gets lots of unwanted recognition from the yearbook cameras.

And the worst part of all is the shamefull parade through the halls of the math/science area. The georetry students of the future will be thankfull of the closed in classrooms this April.

The Crips Parade

It was difficult to determine wether or not Cavaliers are clumsy or just unlucky. If you are puzzled as to we are talking about here then think about all those people that you saw getting out of class five minutes early limping along on those long wooden sticks. It was the Year of the Crutch.

It was, of course, difficult to photograph persons sporting those embarrassing crutches, but our cameramen are accustomed to the art of blackmail photography. Their dilligence caught enough of the action to remind us all of the Year of the Crutch.

Not Yet!

The mock wedding has become a tradition for the Home Economics Department. The wedding gave home economics students the opportunity to realistically experience the pressures, planning, and work required to produce a successful wedding. Therefore, the students involved would better understand a procedure to be duplicated later in their lives.

The memories of the hard work will probably fade in time, but the joyful memories of a dream almost come true will not be forgotten by those lucky enough to have participated.

CLOVER HILL

THE "SPECIAL" OLYMPICS ?????

The NHSers of Clover Hill put on one event that pits the insanity up against each class of students: The NHS Olympics. The Juniors won this years competition. The seniors racked up the most disqualifications. Events such as the "Dizzy Lizzy" of the Blind Shopping Cart Race may be banned as potentially dangerous. Only 2 teachers and one photographer needed medical attention after the fun and games.

"It is a fun way to make money", laughs Mike Pausic — Master of Ceremonies and NHS vice president. "And that's the name of that game"

Knights in White Satin

The Junior-Senior Prom for 1982 surpassed all others in the 10 years of Clover Hill. The Juniors began raising money for the prom during their sophomore year and were still trying to raise money just weeks before the prom.

Connie Rives and Ann Lambert shared a joint sponsorship this year. Ms. Rives was in charge of the finances and Ms. Lambert guided the Juniors through the decorating.

The Juniors spent a lot of time and effort in making April 24th an evening to remember. The gym was elegantly decorated with medieval castles to match the theme "Knights in White Satin". Sarah Loper designed the murals and helped in making the prom a success.

Music for the prom was provided by the band Chess which played a combination of all kinds of music. Colonial Catering supplied the food for the evening.

At 10 o'clock the king and queen were announced. Lisa Gerold and Mark Lythgoe were crowned by host and hostess John Gerold and Karen Downey. The 1982 King and Queen shared a dance as Chess played "Knight in White Satin" by the Moody Blues.

The Juniors can all be praised for the prom that they worked so hard to give the Seniors. Many fond memories were made on April 24th and will be shared by the Juniors and Seniors forever.

HOHNER

ALL THIS WORK FOR A TURKEY???

SENIORS TAKE THE 1982 TURKEY

The annual Junior-Senior Turkey Bowl for 1982 was held in February. The Seniors arrived at an overall victory after defeating the Juniors in a close game. The Seniors won the girls' game and the mixed game, but in the boys' match-up the Juniors were dominant. Junior players, Adam Labar and Daniel Wodrich, were key players in the devasting victory.

The Turkey Bowl is supposed to be a fun game in which the Juniors and Seniors can participate. The whole school is invited to come and watch the event. The Juniors sponsor the Turkey Bowl so they can receive the profits from it. This year's Junior class made approximately $420 which aided the class in putting on a good prom.

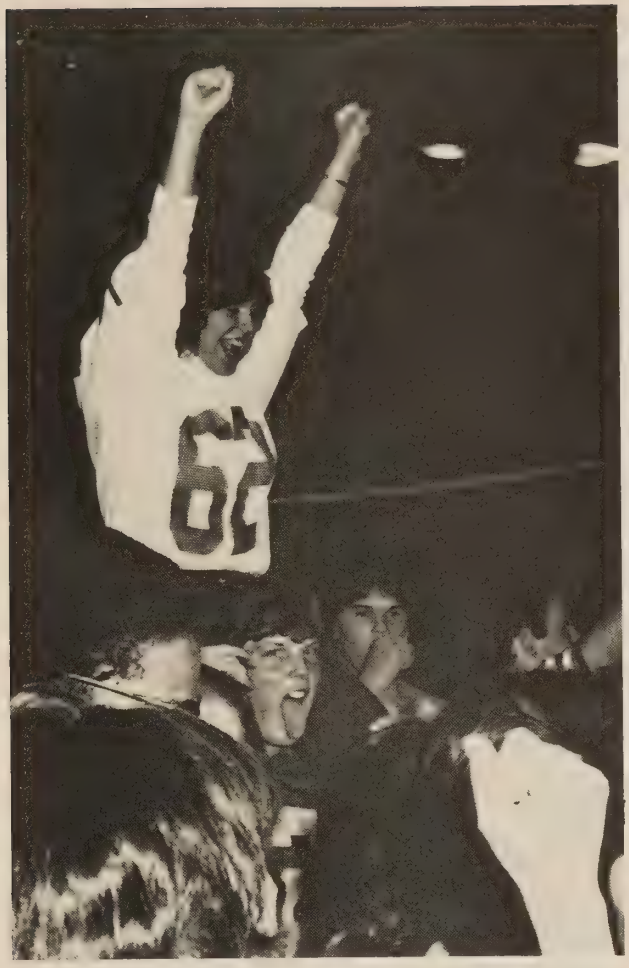

The Juniors have one more chance to win the Turkey Bowl, but for 1982, all they received was the Turkey.

Mike Pavsic, Senior, aided by Junior Brenda Taylor announce the Turkey Bowl.

SENIORS A BREED APART

Senioritis — it starts early in March (or sooner) and attacks the graduates of any institution. Symptoms are laziness, indifference, total will to party — 24 hours a day. The only cure known for this disease is graduation. Some of its victims decided to enjoy the symptoms.

Activities such as Senior Take Over Day, Senior Banquet, Senior Skip Day, Senior Picnic, Senior Beach Day, Senior Sunglass Day, Senior Cap and Gown Day, Senior Practice, Senior Night, all made the pain of this disease more beareable.

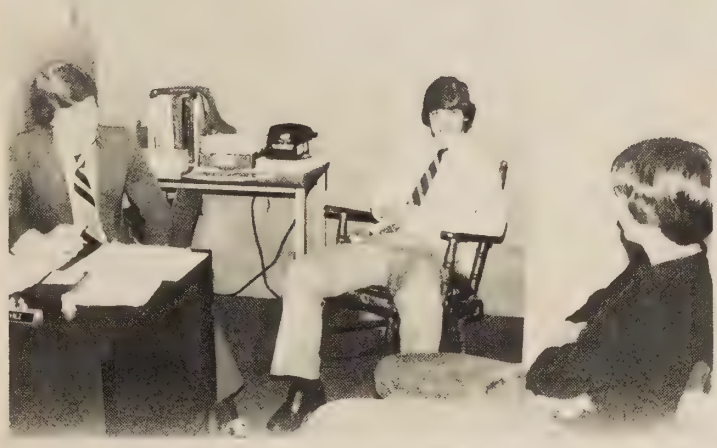

SENIORS ALWAYS ON TOP

UP, UP and AWAY . . .

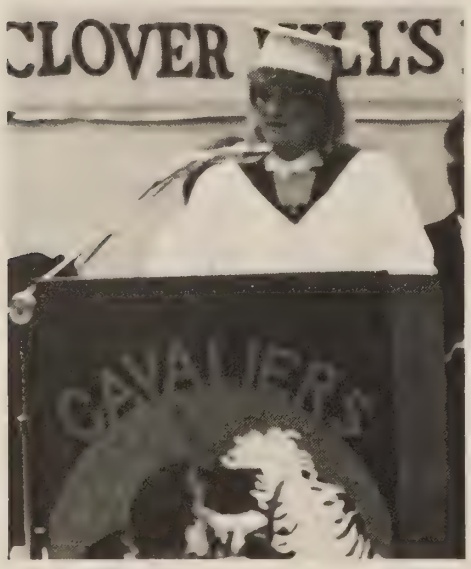

Each of the graduating classes at Clover Hill have had one fact or event about them that sets them apart. Not only is the class of 1982 525% larger than the first class but it is, of course, the tenth graduating class. The banner over the outdoor stage and the baloons will remind all of those '82 seniors of their "claim to fame".

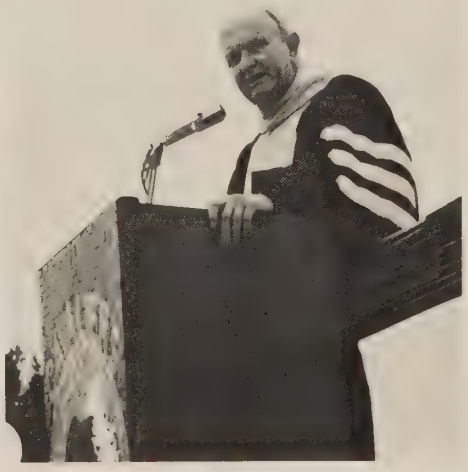

Other firsts made the graduation exercises special; for example Dr. John Davis, State Superintendent of Schools was the speaker for the evening, the first time a member of the faculty has not delivered the speech. In addition Dr. Davis' son was a member of the class of '82.

Howard Sullins, Chesterfield's Superintendent of Schools also attended in honor of the tenth anniversary. His speech, like all the others was kept short, and informal.

The class president then delivered a tearful welcome. Robin Brooks followed with the salutory address, and Tammy Weast did the honors for the validictory.

Memories for those in attendance may fade by the twentieth anniversary, but never in the heart's of the Class of '82.

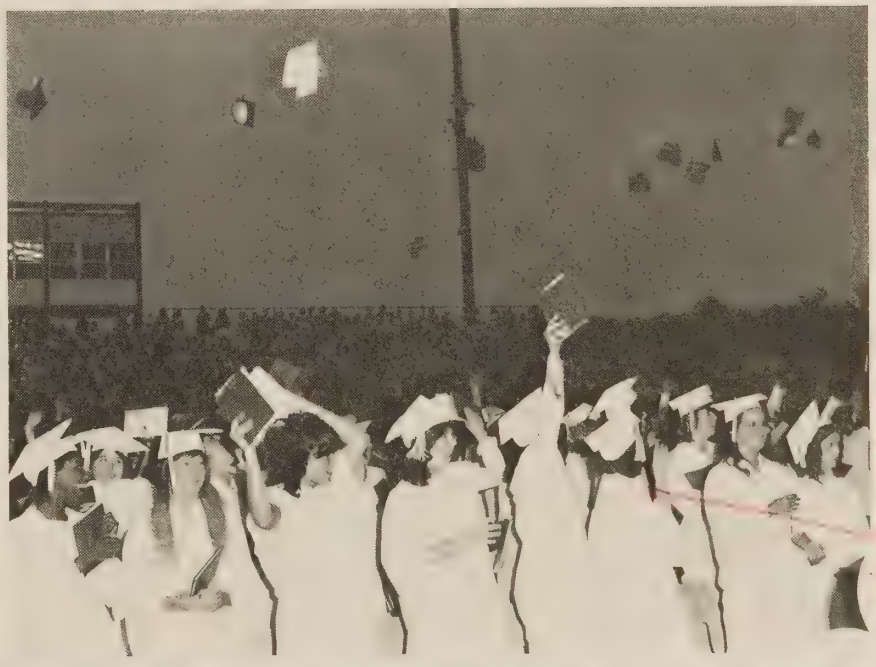

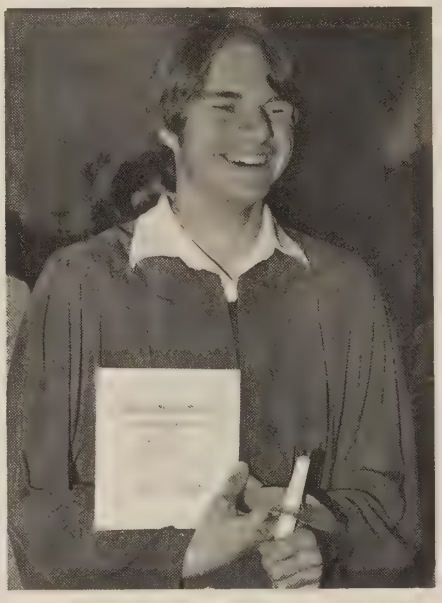

REFLEXIONS OF

As the years have passed the faces have changed yet they remain the same. The student body and faculty have come and gone, however the institution remains. Time has been gracious to Clover Hill. The faces are still young, eager, energetic, and oh so anxious to learn. This learning is not always what the faculty and staff have in mind. But learn they do.

Donna Holzbach, a senior, became interested in a singing career when she was seven. Her first performance was for her elementary school class. When she was in sixth grade, she sang for her class graduation ceremony at Grange Hall. Donna has been in the chorus at Clover Hill for five years. She entered the 1981 talent show here at Clover Hill with John Hutchinson, and the duet won first place. In her senior year, she sang "Endless Love" for the Home Economics Department's mock wedding, and at her senior homecoming dance. In the March celebration, Donna and eight friends put on a show of their own group, "The Sunshine Celebration."

Donna had one bad experience involving her musical talents. When she was fourteen, Donna heard that a talent scout was looking for someone with singing abilities. She tried out and at the auditions, and her tape was sent to Nashville, Tennessee. Then she received word that her tape had been a success. Later, she discovered that the recording company was a fraud, but Donna has always kept an optimistic outlook about singing. "I feel singing is a very important part of my life, and it is a great way to communicate with others."

Greg Speeks, a senior, began showing horses six years ago and since then has become one of the most accomplished Quarter Horse youth exhibitors in the area. Greg says, "I really enjoy showing horses because it has allowed me to travel and meet people all over the country. It also teaches me responsibility and sportsmanship." "Showing horses has also been something my family has enjoyed together and we get to spend more time together." Many kids really think they want a horse until they get it and find out how much time and work it requires to take proper care of the animal and perfect their horsemanship skills. "I know I have to spend 6-8 hours in the barn on an average day and when I have a show (which is about every weekend from April to October) I have to spend more." Greg has had a successful youth career winning various state championships and placing at some of the largest shows in the United States. Greg is hoping to have some type of horse-related career because there's nothing he enjoys more.

ADDICTED TO DANCING

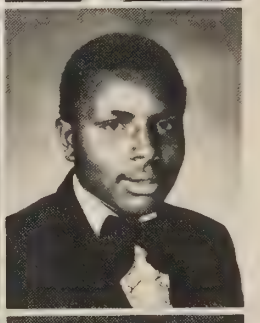

When Carmen Loney, a senior, isn't at school she is usually taking classes at Dinty Gordon's School of Dance, and she has been dancing there since she was nine years old. She takes tap, jazz, and aerobics, and there are two end-of-the-year recitals. She really enjoys dancing because it's fun and good exercise. She claims that dancing is only a hobby, but once she tried to quit but ended up going back three weeks later. She says, "I missed going. Dancing gives me a chance to express myself with music in my own style. I'm not only able to learn from others but teach them also."

In a class of his own

Ever since he arrived at Clover Hill five years ago, Sterling Pollard has been standing out in the school's art scene. Quiet and somewhat bashful, Sterling has no problems in communicating with others through his art, and his name appears consistently in school, county, area shows, and even at the University of Richmond.

A versatile artist, Sterling is as much at home with a loom, a needle, or a latchhook as he is with a paintbrush or clay in his hand. One of his needlework creations, a portrait of our Cavalier done in French knots, hangs over the public address console in the office. Another hanging was presented to Dr. Gibson commemorating Clover Hill's 10th anniversary. Also, one of Sterling's paintings is being displayed in the new State Department of Education building.

Yearbooks show that Sterling's work was selected to represent Chesterfield County in several juried shows: the 1980, 1981, and 1982 First and Merchants Bank National Youth Art Month shows, the Great Beginnings at the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts, a regional student art show held during the 1981 Virginia Art Education Conference. Of our 400 in this show, Sterling's painting was one of four photographed by the Times Dispatch*.*

Sterling has been accepted to attend Virginia State University where he hopes to major in commercial art. ~~We are confident that his art work will shine at VSU.~~

JUNIORS

The class of '83 started the school year early. At the end of their sophomore year, they held elections for their Junior class officers. They hoped to get a jump on the money for the prom by starting to plan fund raising activities. Money does not grow on trees, much to the dismay of Shari Mitchell, the class treasurer. She kept close track of the balance and knew that the Junior Class had to find money somewhere; if not from trees, what about from the Juniors themselves? After all, it was their Prom, too! The dues started at $10.00 but had to be increased, and by the deadline, the price was $15.00. If dues had not been paid by then, the Junior stayed home Prom Night.

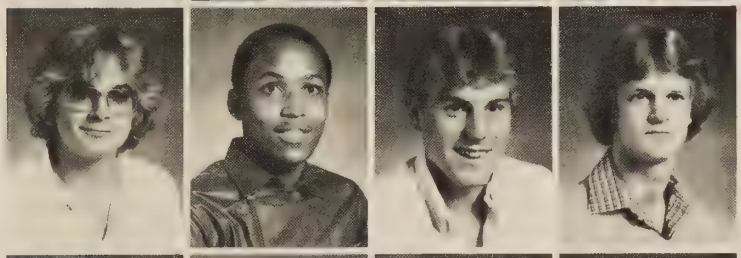

Dues alone were not enough to pay for the Prom, so Debbie Chainey, Class President, and Shelly Hamlett, Class Vice-President, came up with other fund raising projects with help from homeroom representatives. The magazine drive was the first project. With the great prizes as an incentive, the class bank balance was greatly increased. The Junior Class also sold Clover Hill key chains, but these did not sell very well.

While all this fund raising was going on, the theme of the Prom developed, the band was chosen, and the decorations were designed. The work started early in January with the forming of committees by Ms. Lambert. During this time, Tammy Wotten, Class Secretary, kept attendance, called in orders, and make sure everything was running smoothly.

Wood, Class Historian. The serious and exciting ring ceremony was an event that was greatly appreciated, because a school ring is a symbol of effort, but also fun.

The narrow defeat by the Seniors in the Powder Puff game did not dampen the Juniors's spirit for long. The Juniors knew they would have another chance at making a come back during the Turkey bowl, which they unfortunately lost.

CLASS OF '83

April 24 was the climax of all the hard work accomplished by the Juniors. The theme, band, and decorations blended well to make Prom Night perfect for the Seniors, who would soon be leaving Clover Hill for ever. It was painful to leave that night and then have to come back Sunday morning and remove all the memories.

The Juniors had a lot of memorable pictures taken by Patty

The Junior yeear for the class of '83 was one to be remembered. It was a year of hard work, worries, and problems which could not have been handled without Ms. Rives. Mixed in with the bad times there were a lot of fun and good times that will be remembered for the years to come.

Cute as a button . . .

Sarah Loper — the better way to button dressing.

Sarah Loper, a junior, has an unusual hobby. She collects buttons! To date, her collection includes 650 buttons. She was inspired to start her collection by a good friend in the fifth grade, and has influenced three other people into enjoying this hobby. Sarah acquired these buttons from friends, yard sales, and flea markets. She has even walked up to people on the street, that she has never seen before, offering to buy their buttons from them. Most of the time, these people just give the buttons to her.

Her collection includes a wide variety of buttons. She has an original mouseketeer button which dates back to the 1890's. She also has political and Woodstock buttons.

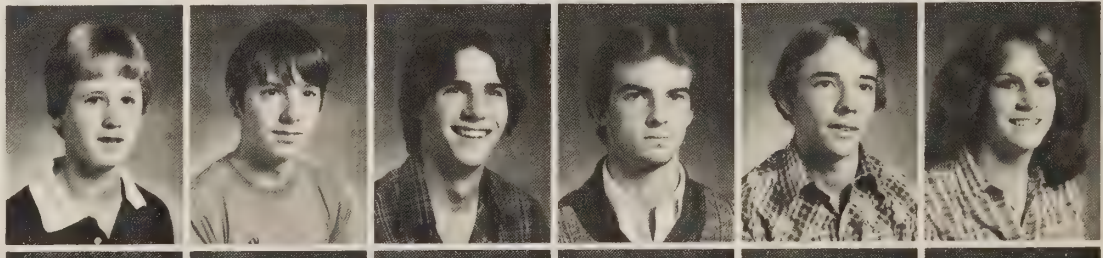

Sarah's buttons have become somewhat precious to her, for she has stated, "I refuse to trade them, because I can't give them up."

From Jersey's to Sweat Suits and Back Again

Kevin O'Hare, otherwise known as the "Mad-Irishman," plays defensive tackle on the varsity football team. He weighs in at 192 pounds and stands 6'0" tall. When he isn't playing football or working out, you can find him at the Fitness Center as an instructor.

Kevin enjoys being an instructor because it gives him the opportunity to tell others what to do. He helps the members work out on the machines that are suitable to their individual needs. "Some people come in looking for a fitness system to lose with weight, others want to lighten up and build their muscles, it all depends on what the individual wants," Kevin says.

When asked, "What equipment does Nautilus offer?" Kevin replied, "We have one of the best sets of body-building equipment in Richmond, and we also have saunas for men and women."

Kevin has always been active in athletics, and has grown up in an athletic family. His entire family was active in Judo, in which Kevin suceeded to green belt in the eighth grade. For three years, he entered the Junior Olympics for Judo and won one gold medal and two silver metals.

His plans for the future are to attend Notre Dame or VMI and he hopes to play Pro-football someday. His immediate plans for the future are to keep instructing at Nautilus and to weigh in at 225 pounds, 6'3" next football season. His expectation for next year's football season is "to have the biggest, roughest, most awesome team in this country and district."

SOPHOMORES

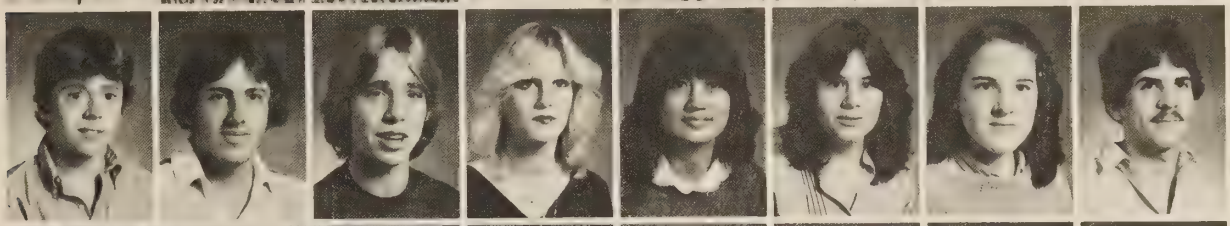

It has been a very busy year for the sophomore class. They have accomplished many of the projects and activities they had planned. Their first big project was inventing an original sophomore class t-shirt, and the yellow and green "Class of '84" shirts sold very well. The sophomore class felt that this would be a great way to show their class spirit! In February, they sold carnations for Valentine's Day. This project was very successful with a tremendous response from everyone. They, also, had a booth at the school carnival, and as the warm weather came, they started their big money-making projects.

Since they came to Clover Hill as unnoticed freshmen, the sophomore class

ANNE PLUNGE

Anne Applegate takes a plunge at North Beach.

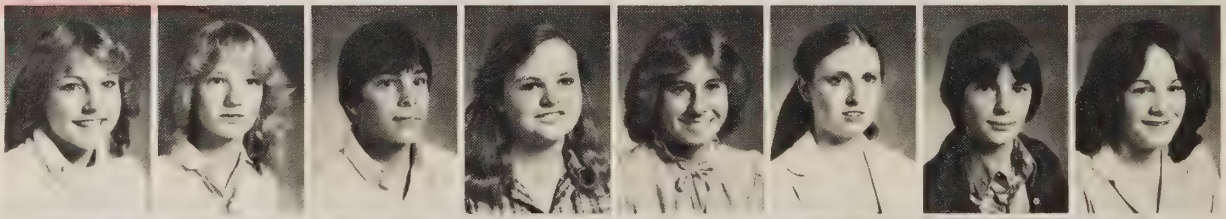

A popular summer sport at Brandermill's North Beach Pool is diving. The diving team coached by Gloria Thompson and Donna Eubanks, won the Championship Tournament last summer. Anne Applegate, one of Brandermill's top divers, plans to "go far" in her career. She started when she was seven years old and now she works at her diving skill three hours a day.

Anne competes on both one and three meter diving boards, and the work-out is not easy. Anne must physically and mentally prepare herself for diving. Before entering the water, she does a series of warm-ups in which she stretches her muscles. When the time comes to get on the diving board, she must fully concentrate on every dive.

Every summer, Anne attends a diving camp at N.C. State. For those two weeks, she practices about nine hours a day. "It's alot of hard work," Anne admits, "but it's self-rewarding after learning a challenging dive."

Anne has been the state champion diver twice; once for one meter, and once for the three meter board. Last year, Anne ranked 25th in the nation.

To get a scholarship to a college is a goal Anne wants to achieve. She explains, "To me, diving is a very big part of my life; it comes to me naturally most of the time, but it has taught me to work hard for something I really want."

TUMBLING, NOT STUMBLING

Julie Gerold is one of the top competing gymnasts at the Richmond Olympiad gym. She works out five to six days a week and four to five hours each day. She has been in gymnastics for five and a half years, and she has been competing for four of those years. Julie not only competes locally, but she has, also, competed in other countries, such as: Luxembourg, Belgium, Holland, Germany, France, and Austria.

Julie admits that gymnastics takes a lot of hard work and a good mental outlook. She explains, "It is not a seasonal sport. If you want to be good, you have to work at it all year and give up other things you want to do."

There are four events for women in gymnastics: the balance beam, the uneven bars, the vault, and the floor exercise. Besides competing on all of these events, Julie is, also, required to do calisthenics, which is called "strenths." Strength is built primarily with the use of strength equipment along with flexibility exercises and dance techniques combined with planned rotations on the beam, the floor, the bars, and the vault.

Julie's goal in gymnastics is to become an elite gymnast and compete at the national level, and Julie certainly has the dedication, the discipline, and the determination to achieve her goal.

FRESHMEN

High school freshmen have seldom received any respect from the upperclassmen, and this year's "anklebiters" were no different. The class of 1985 faced many difficulties in proving to the rest of the school that they were not about to be overlooked, but they were finally able to have their voices heard.

Most freshmen agreed that they had more freedom at Clover Hill than they had had at middle school, and to them it was a welcome change. There were mixed opinions about the open classrooms. Some said that it was too noisy, while others liked knowing what was going on in the class down the hall. As for academics, the majority of the freshmen felt that the classes at Clover Hill were more difficult than what they had been used to at middle school.

All in all, Clover Hill's Class of 1985 enjoyed their new school, despite oppression from upperclassmen. After a year of trying to prove their worth, the freshmen class is through being the underdog. They are now ready to move up, so ... JUST WAIT UNTIL NEXT YEAR!

Double Dribble . . .

Mickey Ford started playing basketball in the sixth grade at Salem Church Middle School and won the award for the Most Improved Player. At Swift Creek Middle School, Mickey won the Most Valuable Player Award, and there are certainly more awards to come. This year she played the forward position on the girl's varsity basketball team, which, for a ninth grader, is an award in itself. Mickey said she "was picked on by the other players" until she established herself on the team. The other team members nicknamed her "ships" because of her big feet.

Mickey would like to continue playing basketball and perhaps obtain a scholarship with her skills.

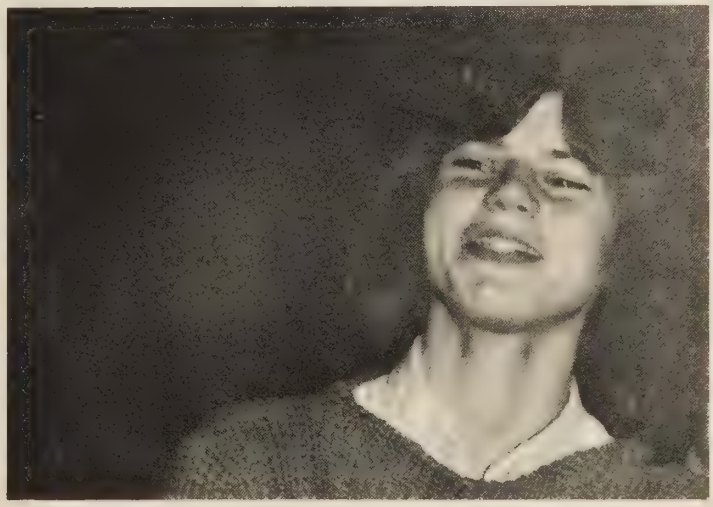

Mickey Ford

Holly Condrey was another ninth grade girl with an outstanding talent in basketball. She started playing three years ago and hasn't quit since. As a member of the Swift Creek basketball team, Holly won the Coach's Award. She was also chosen as the junior camper of the week at basketball camp.

At Clover Hill, Holly played on the girl's junior varsity basketball team. She felt that the girl's basketball team did not get as much coverage as the boys's basketball team did, and not as many people attended the games. This didn't bother her too much because she "just enjoys playing basketball."

Holly Condrey

Birdwoman

You have heard of the birdman from Alcatraz, but have you ever heard of the birdwoman from Clover Hill? Her name is Gina Van Groesbeck, and she's wild about birds. Her collection includes: six parakeets, one cock-a-too, and one finch. She received her first parakeet on her ninth birthday. After she started collecting birds, they became more than a hobby. They became her friends. Gina's birds are very tame, but they can be very dangerous if they are angered.

"I would just rather keep away from large birds; small birds are cute when they stay small!" Gina said showing her preference for smaller birds. Gina would like to be a professor of ornothology, the study of birds and their way of life.

Music Minded Duo

Chris Kreynus and Norman Johnson, two Juniors at Clover Hill last year, spent their free time playing in the orchestra. Chris played the cello, while Norman played the viola.

Norma and Chris have been in various competitions winning a great many medals and certificates. Norman was the Outstanding Orchestra Member in 1979-1980. He also, competed in three important competitions: All County Orchestra, Junior Regionals, and Festival. Chris, while also being involved in the above three activities, he in addition, played in the Richmond Youth Symphony Orchestra. This is a credit many young musicians strive for.

Norma and Chris, both lovers of music, see that the future holds much for these two musicians. Who knows? One day they may be as great as Ludwig Van Beethoven.

The few, the brave, the proud . . . only twenty-three remain

THE TEN YEAR PERSONNEL

Back: Willard Strickland, Jim Wagoner, George Rickman, William Pritchett, Wes Childress, Middle: Francis Davis, Marshall Pearman, Cen Waters, Mary Woodhouse, Jean Bottoms, Ann Papin, Seated: Rhonda Larimer, Mildred Valz, Marjorie Crump, Ann Quesenberry, Juanita Lasswell, Joyce Locke, Front: Linda Kaempf, Janice Temple, Mary Cooke

The few, the brave, the proud . . . the Clover Hill ten year veterans. These are apt words to describe Clover Hill's special group of personnel. Twenty-three of Clover Hill's present staff have been here for ten years. They came to Clover Hill when it was first opened and have stuck with the job. They have done their best and given their all to aid those under them to better themselves.

These determined people were honored at a Faculty breakfast in the Spring. Dr. Gibson awarded all of them a Clover Hill pin and a certificate. In his speech, he had many glowing comments about this special group.

Clover Hill has experienced much change during its ten year history, and each person viewed the change differently. Mrs. Linda Kaempf saw the change happen in the student body. With the development of Brandermill students from other states moved in to mix with those students already here. She describes Clover Hill as a "melting pot".

When asked what changes he thought were occuring, Coach Jim Wagoner said he welcomed them. He looks forward to the new changes in the building for the sake of change. "It will be new and different", he confided to the staff.

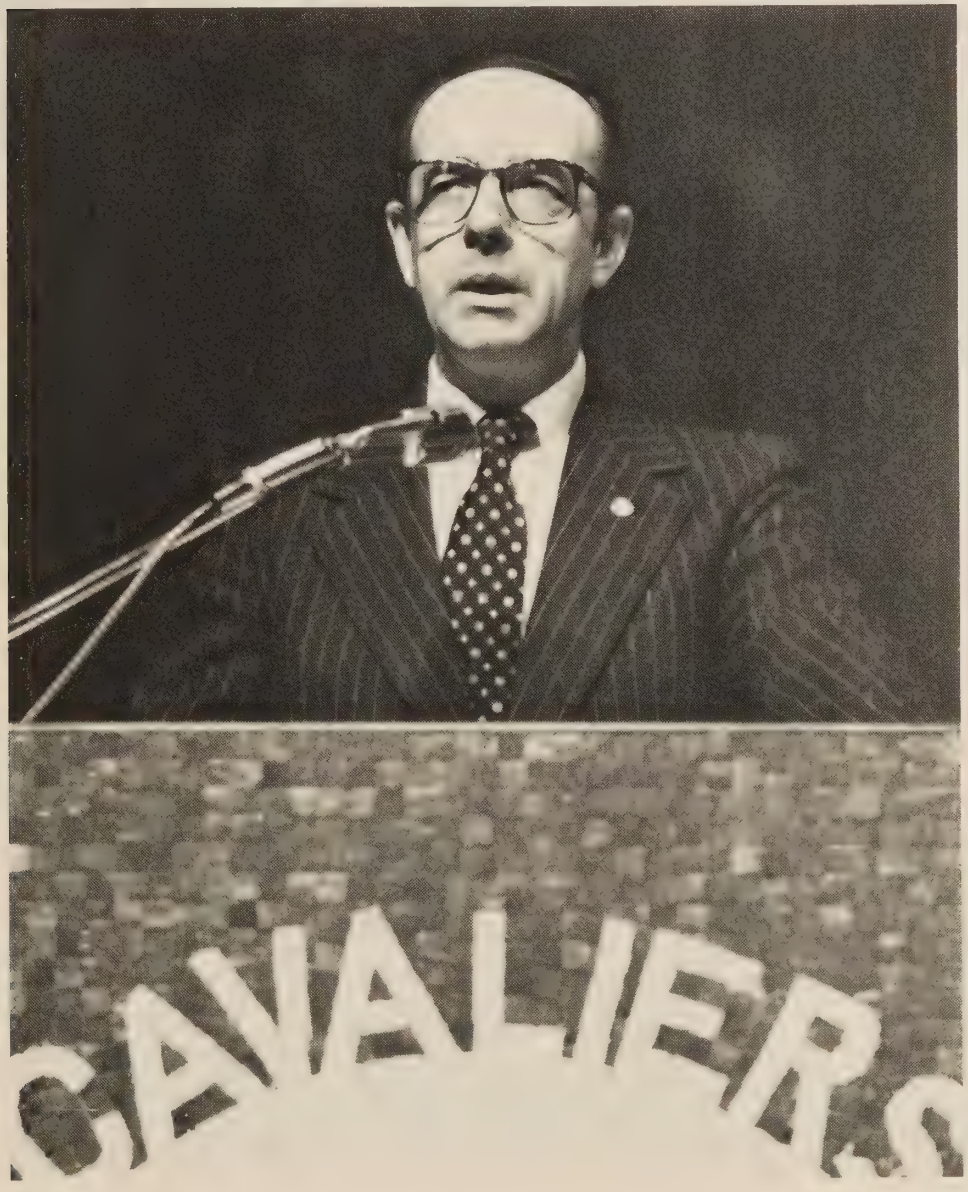

Mrs. Mary Woodhouse felt the change in the school course offerings have been drastic and for the improvement of the students education. The new courses gave the students a better choice to do what they want to with their lives.

Clover Hill wraps up a decade of sharing knowledge with the future generations, while many changes are yet to come. The few, the brave, the proud, . . . the teachers, the staff will still be here to witness the changes in students, courses, the school, and of course time.

lama. (Hello, Mr. Houghton. Have a safe journey.)

VISITING ANOTHER PLACE IN ANOTHER TIME

At one time or another, we all get the urge to meet new people and see new things, but only the lucky ones actually find a way to do it. The yearning for travel hit Mr. Harold Houghton in the latter part of his senior year at college, and a small advertisement sent him on his way to Kenya, Africa, to teach for two years.

He lived and taught in a small school house located in a rural area, lacking the modern comforts. Whenever it rained, local flood made the roads impassable, and because of the lack of refrigeration, one could only eat what was in season. Mr. Houghton was even forced to spend three weeks on a diet of beans and potatoes. Teaching was even more of a challenge than the cultures in Africa. English was the students' third language, and Mr. Houghton's American accent was not accepted favorably by the students. Mr. Houghton wanted to teach physics, chemistry, and mathematics in an informal classroom atmosphere, but his African students preferred lectures and notes. In Africa, high school students take one final exam which solely determines their acceptance to a college. "I would give them tests and quizzes, but these did not matter to them . . . they were only concerned with the one exam."

Despite the challenges and the problems, Mr. Houghton enjoyed the entire experience. He claims that he felt like an early settler must have felt, and the change in life styles pleased him. "I found the focus to be more on people than on the aquistion of property."

He exclaimed over Africa's beauty again and again. While he was there, he took some time out from teaching to do some traveling. He climbed Mount Kilimongaro and Mount Kenya, and he spent a day and a half in Sarengeti, Africa's largest game reserve. When asked if he will return to Kenya, Mr. Houghton's instantaneous reply was "definitely!"

T-E-A-C-H-E-R — Put Them All Together and They Spell Friend

Ms. Rives, a small, spunky, dark-haired woman, could almost be mistaken for a student, until she is in her domain — the classroom — spewing Latin out easily. She has been teaching Latin for five years. She goes to Swift Creek Middle School during her fifth and sixth period. She has adopted the Junior class, and is in charge of the Certamen. She has, also, studied a number of other languages: French, German, Italian, and Hebrew. Some of which, she taught herself.

In her spare time, Ms. Rives enjoys photography, reading, studying about ancient philosophy, bowling, playing raqetball and the guitar, and playing with her Cocker Spaniel which she has even brought to school on teacher work days.

Ms. Rives feels that "learning a foreign language is a neccessity for international trade and world peace, and by studying another language, one learns to appreciate other cultures." Latin was her favorite subject in school, and it became a catalyst to make her work harder at all of her subjects. She, also, added that "Latin is a good base on which to learn other languages."

We are lucky to have a teacher who appreciates both the art of teaching and the art of learning. Ms. Rives has the uncanny ability to incorporate her vibrant personality in her unique teaching style. So that after you have had Latin with Ms. Rives, you can learn anything!

REFLEXIONS OF

Academics are the reason that we are all here in the first place. This was true ten years ago. This is true today. Every school has its disadvantages, but here at Clover Hill we all try to make the classes as enjoyable as possible. We are the only school in the county that has carpeting (and no walls). We have air conditioning because we do not have operable windows. We even get to fry under air conditioning repairs (in the summer) and the lack of heat (during the long cold winter days).

In spite of the adversities, education marches forward to its never ending tune. Scores of Cavaliers have lived through it all and will continue to do so in grand style.

One way to march forward is through the curriculum we offer. During the last ten years Clover Hill has kept up. Computers, advanced placement courses, Journalism, Sociology, Public Speaking (to name only a few) and have lead the way to changing the Cavaliers educational goals.

SPEAK TO ME . . .

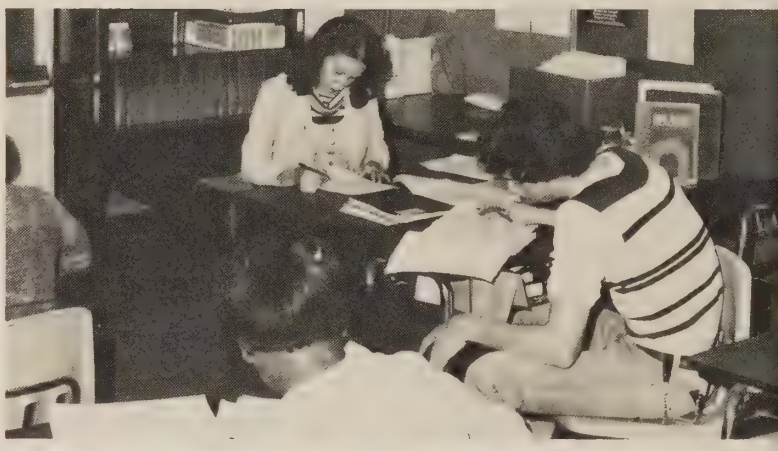

The English Department consists of eleven English teachers and one reading specialist. The curriculum is structured basically around teaching the basics in English. This includes grammar, vocabulary-spelling, writing, and literature. The goal of the English Department is to address the oral and written communication needs of all students enrolled in Clover Hill High School.

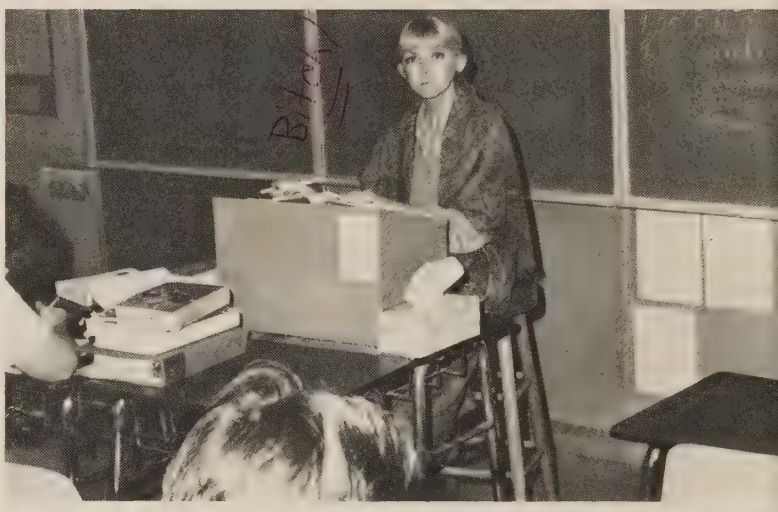

Only one original member of the Clover Hill High School English Department is still present, Mrs. Ronda Larimer, with Mr. Barham and Mr. Johnson joining the staff in its second year. These three teachers were followed by Mrs. Driskill, Mrs. Hutto, Mrs. Musick, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Keister, Mrs. Yandall, Mrs. Jenkins, Mrs. Thomason, and Mrs. Coffey.

Many changes have occured in the past decade in the English Department. Faces once familiar are no longer present; walls, then almost an illusion, now provide a partial separation of activities; the mini-course experienced a graceful "death", and currently popular electives provide a new incentive for the ever-changing interests of students. Major activities occuring through out the school year include forensic meets, literary publications, movies sponsored by the Clover Patch, field trips to theater productions, a career assembly, and various guest speakers from local resource persons.

Student opinions of English Department as expressed in an informal discussion in Mrs. Hutto's English 12 class on the day of the Powder-Puff Game.

"No walls, please!"
"I would not want to go to another school."
"Teachers are friendlier now than they used to be."
"They (teachers) are easier to relate to-more like most of us."
"It's still cold in here."
"I didn't know I liked poetry!"
"Not, bad, overall!"

Right — Micheal Parent, otherwise known as Micheal the story teller, treats the English department to one of his original stories.

IN ANY LANGUAGE

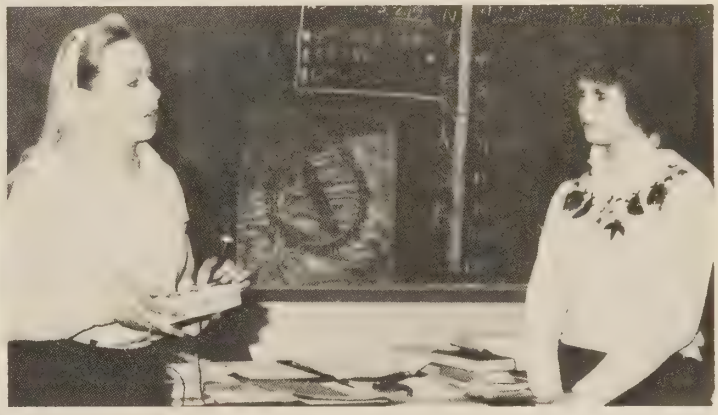

The Department of Foreign Languages consists of Mr. Rickman, chairman (Spanish); Mrs. Riggs (Spanish); Miss Colbert (French); Miss Drinkard (French and German) and Mrs. Coffey (French). Over the years, levels 1-5 have been offered to grades 8-12. During the school years 1979-80, Foreign Languages participated in the Exploratory Program for Clover Hill seventh graders. By taking a different language from 4-9 weeks, these students received a personal introduction to the Foreign Language curriculum.

Foreign Language students at Clover Hill have participated in cultural expression through traditional activities: Clover Hill Foreign Language Week, Chesterfield County Fine Arts Festival and Christmas caroling in Clover Hill halls.

More Than Just A Pretty Figure...

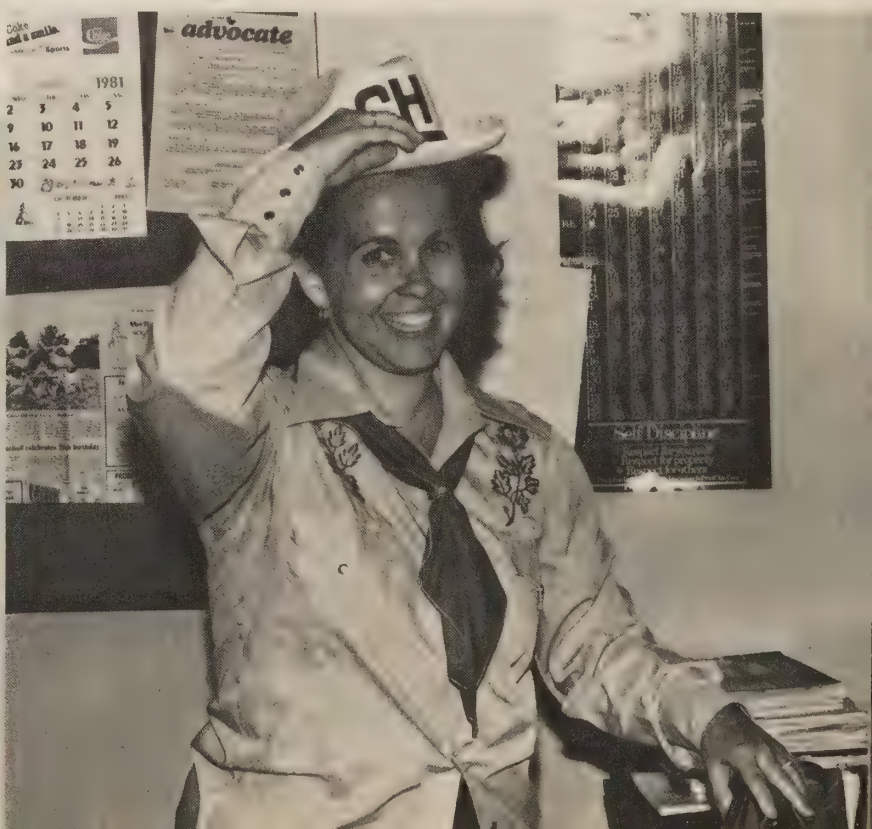

The Math department is a very active group of teachers. In addition to the varied course offerings the math department members find time to enter the students in various math and computer competitions.

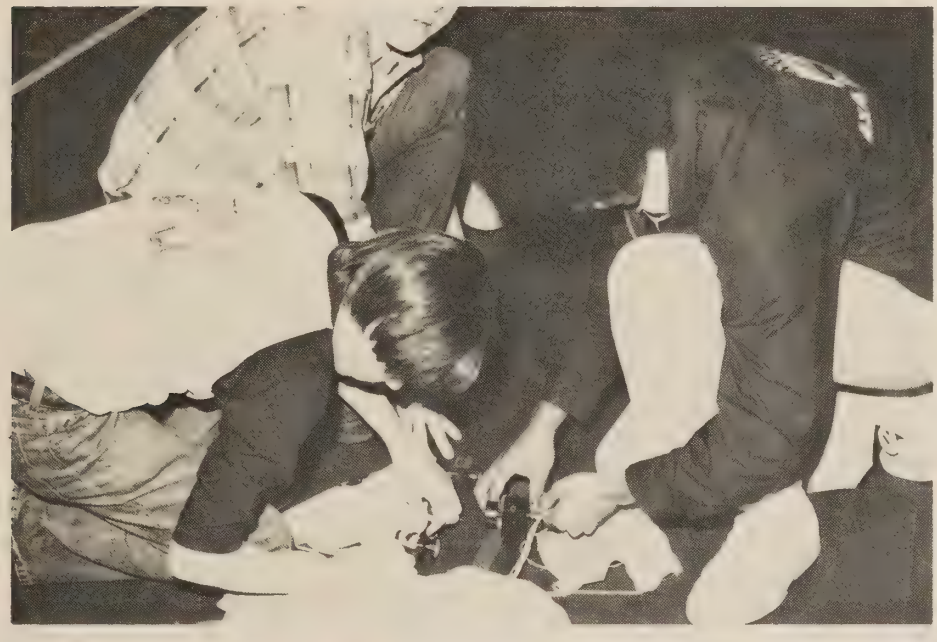

Competition has been the name of the game for the more ambitious math student. They have entered the V.C.U. Math Contest, the Computer Contest at Longwood College, and a National Computer Contest sponsored by the University of Wisconsin at V.C.U. Clover Hill walked away with place. At both of the computer contests the students gained experienced and vowed th bring home first place next year.

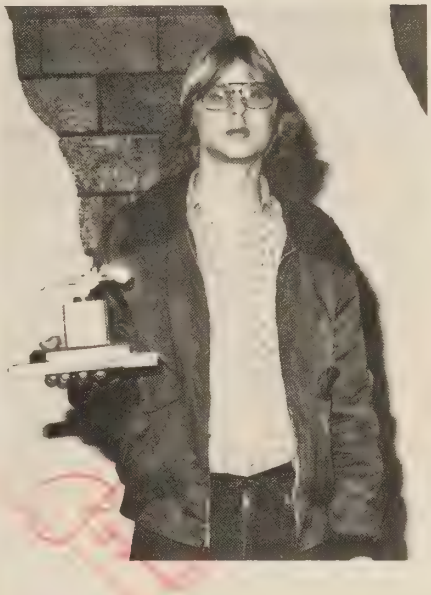

This year eight people make up the math department. Wes Childress, Sharon Bryant, Juanita Lasswell, Mary Woodhouse, Nancye Milam, Judy Bowman, Nell Fryar, and Harold Houghton. Of these eight, three have been here for ten years (Wes Childress, Mrs. Lasswell, Ms. Woodhouse). That's some percentage!

it takes hard work

The industrial arts department at Clover Hill High School consists of two major areas of study: drafting or mechanical drawing and general industrial arts.

Mechanical Drawing is often called the "language of industry" for it is through this graphic description of the size and shape of objects we are able to manufacture or construct our many products. The inteoductory subject of Basic Technical Drawing provides the concepts and the methods which enable us to produce visual descriptions of solids or three dimensional objects on flat surfaces. Engineering Drawing, and advanced subject, is concerned with manufacturing and the drawings for such products as are built in factories. Architectural Drawing, also an advanced subject, deals with the drawings for the construction of products as houses or buildings.

General Industrial Arts classes are those taught in the "shop", or, as we prefer to call it, the laboratory. A wide variety of areas and subjects such as woodworking, metalworking construction or manufacturing can be studied. In each of these year length classes, students study and use materials, processes, tools, machines, and concepts related to the specific area.

Woodworking involves the planning, fabricating and assembling of projects using wood, wood products, the tools, machines and materials needed for these activities.

Metalworking can also lead in many directions. The studies of sheetmetal, gas or electric welding, foundry and machine are all involved in the ways metal can be shaped or formed to make products.

As presently staffed there are two members of this department. Dr. Lowell Ellett teaches mechanical drawing and James Todd teaches industrial arts laboratory classes.

The students of industrial arts also provided with the opportunity to participate in the organization: American Industrial Arts Student Association or "AIASA". This group seeks to serve our school and community by varios planned projects. There regional, state and national levels and activities of this student directed group.

The industrial arts department, through its courses and activities, strives to help our students to be able to better life and work in an ever increasingly technical world.

From the Library

Library Aides front — Lisa Nussey, Mrs. Temple (second) Wendy Long, Jimmy Melton, Chris Townsend, Robert Preston, Todd Crump (back) Wayne Allen, Mrs. Sluss, Rich Murray, Troy Teasdale, Mac Bowen.

There have been many changes in the library in ten years. Clover Hill opened in the fall of 1972 with a library with no walls and 74 cartons of books on the floor. Since then partitions have been installed around the library and all the shelves have been moved to utilize the wall space and make more room between the free standing shelves for browsing.

The library has a collection of about 14,000 volumes classified by the Dewey Decimal system, fifty magazines, a vertical file containing numerous current articles and pamplets, other reference sources and a collection of subject related audio visual materials and the necessary equipment for classroom use.

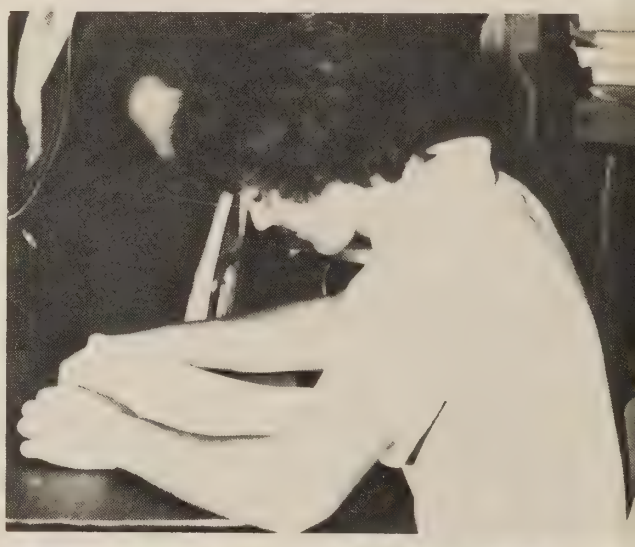

Mrs. Temple has been head librarian since Clover Hill opened. Mrs. Sluss joined the staff the following year as secretary. Mrs. Driver came to Clover Hill from Midlothian as assistant librarian in 1980.

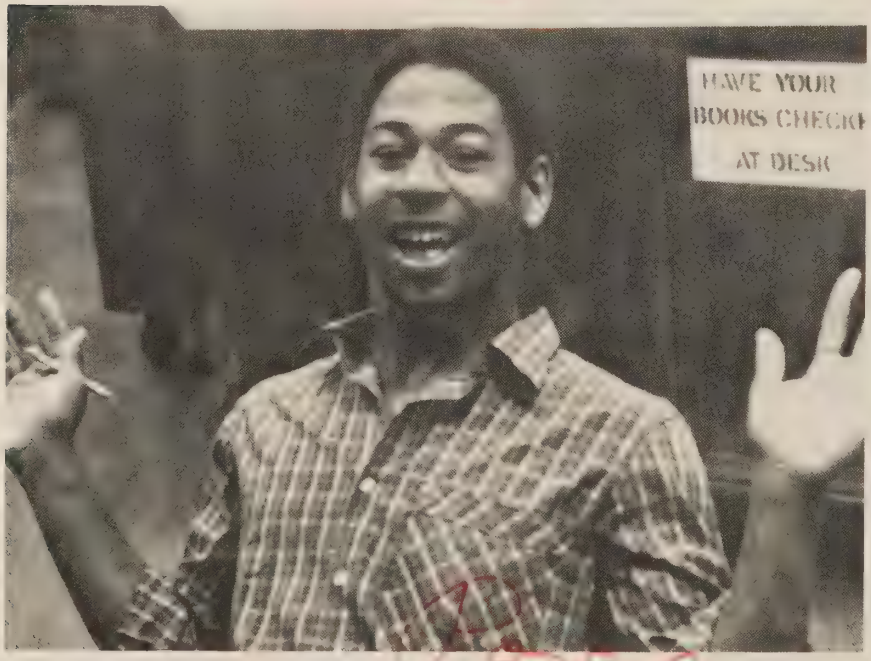

In the winter of 1981, a book detection system was installed in the library. Clover Hill was the fourth county high school to receive the system. It has been very successful in protecting the book and magazine collection. The student body should be given credit for accepting the system with a positive.

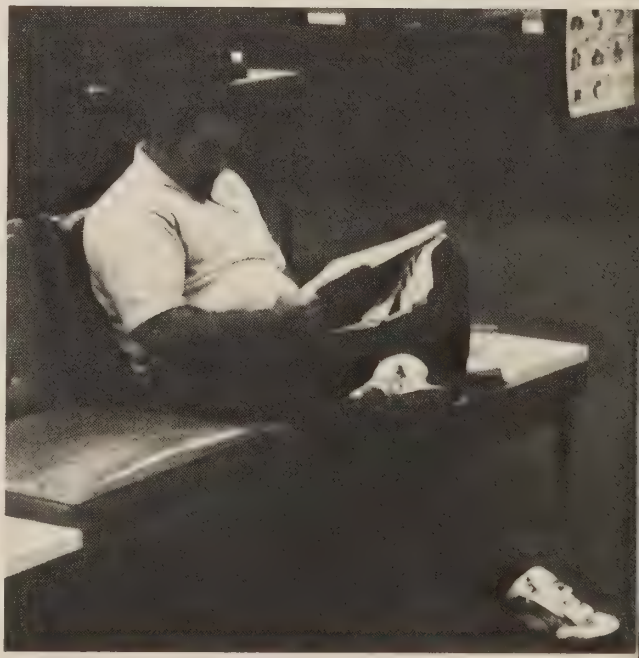

The library staff is proud of Clover Hill students and teachers good use of the library over its long decade of use — no other school can match Clover Hill!

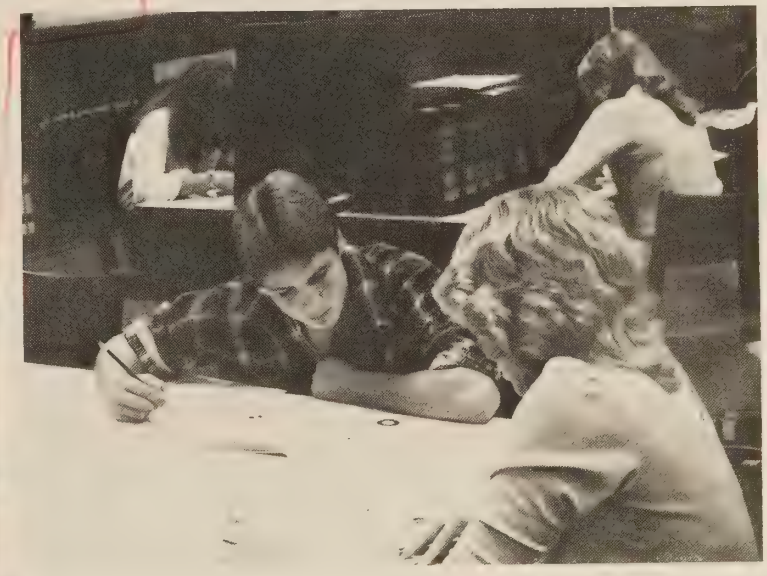

. . . Let us help

There are many paraprofessionals at Clover Hill that supplement the administration as well as the faculty. Commonly known as "aides", these important people are a valuable asset to the efficent running of the plant. They "aid" in the office, in guidance, in LD, in ED, in the library — anywhere they are needed.

When thinking of academics, one does not ususally think study hall, yet it is an important part of the school academic atmosphere. Many students work after school and have little time to spend studying. An in-school study period under Mr. Boggs or Mr. Lowman does the trick. An in-school study is a vital part of many students daily schedule.

. . . Let us study

ART CELEBRATES

Ten years ago, our school was born. It boasted an elegant, completed physical plant with all the modern conveniences conducive to make education a stimulating experience for the student body. But this was an unusual group for the new school had brought about in the school districts' boundaries. The students comprised a group of displaced youngsters transferred from other schools coming together under a new standard.

The chosen emblem was the cavalier and the art students set about the task of developing the imagery that would give the emblem substance and the new school with its new students a sense of identity that would bind them together as Cavaliers.

More than just an art image, the Cavalier is a symbol. It has been rendered by art students into murals, mosaics, stitchery, silk screen, banners and in countless items from football helmets

Charles Blankenship and Davey Butler Class '77 pose by the bigger than life size sculpture of Cavalier sculpture they created in Mrs. Cen Waters' 9th grade art class. In a sentimental gesture, the young sculpturers supended a heart bearing their initials within the Cavalier's chest cavity.

March saw the installation of a new organization: the Clover Hill Chapter of the National Art Honor Society devoted to promote the art program and to bring art to the attention of the school and the community.

March is National Youth Art Month and a fitting time to recognize our art students for their outstanding performance in art. Not only do these art students create the art works that call attention to Clover Hill, but they also assist the art teachers in arranging art displays throughout the year both at school and away from it.

Some of the NAHS students designed the emblem for the 10 YEARS IN CLOVER our school's celebration of its 10th anniversary. The emblem was used in posters, invitations, buttons, bumperstickers, a 13 foot banner and even on cake decorations and napkins.

Within a short time, the NAHS accomplished much including an art sale to raise funds for an art scholarship for one of its members.

10 YEARS IN CLOVER

The emblem of the 10 YEARS IN CLOVER created in needlepoint is presented to Dr. Harold Gibson principal by Sterling Pollard. As much as ease with the needle as with the paintbrush, Sterling was honored for his outstanding performance in art receiving the Robert V. Lewis Faculty Scholarship and chosen by fellow members for the NAHS Scholarship*.*

to frisbees, coffee mugs, buttons, bumper stickers and even the school checks, all bear the official image of the CAVALIER*.*

As Clover Hill celebrated its 10th Anniversary with the slogan TEN YEARS IN CLOVER, the former art students were honored with a reception and a RETROSPECTIVE ART SHOW featuring art works of the past decade. When the idea was first conceived, letters were sent to survey the interest in such an event. The response was overwhelming with replies from as far away as Japan.

The former art students were welcomed back by members of newly formed National Art Honor Society. This was more than a Home Coming, it was a sensational journey into 10 YEARS IN CLOVER. Their presence enriched Clover Hill and still does with their lending of their talents to set high standards for others to follow.

The Cavaliers standard continues to be held high by art students who during this term participated in the Great Beginnings Art Show at the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts, the County Fair, the F&M National Art Month Show and the County wide Fine Arts Festival.

AT WORK

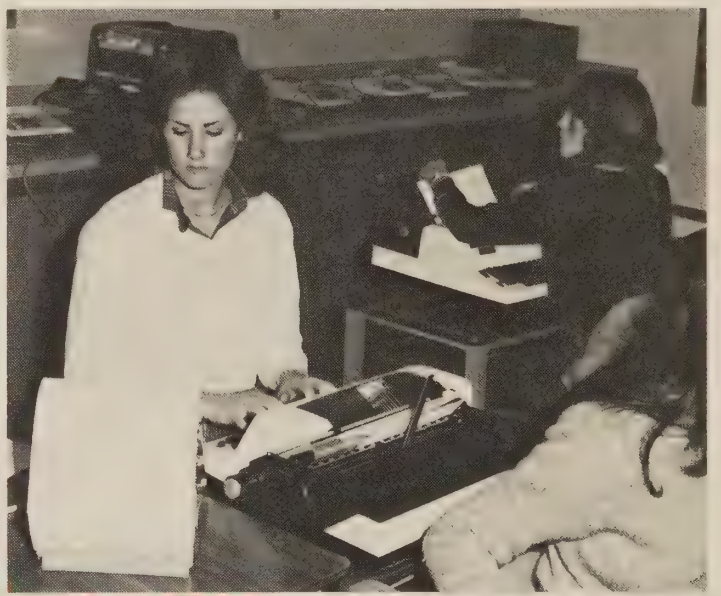

General Business is a recommended course for business students. It is first offered in the ninth grade. Students may participate in the Cooperative Office Education (COE) Program by completing the Prerequisites necessary to enroll in Office Practice. COE is a twelth grade program.

There are four members of the Business Education staff — Miss Cole, Mrs. Harlow, Mrs. Locke, and Mrs. Wood. Miss Cole teaches Typing I/II and Office Practice. She serves as the Cooperative Office Education Coordinator, chief sponsor of FBLA, and co-sponsor of the freshman class. Miss Cole is a graduate of Radford College where she received her B.S. in Education.

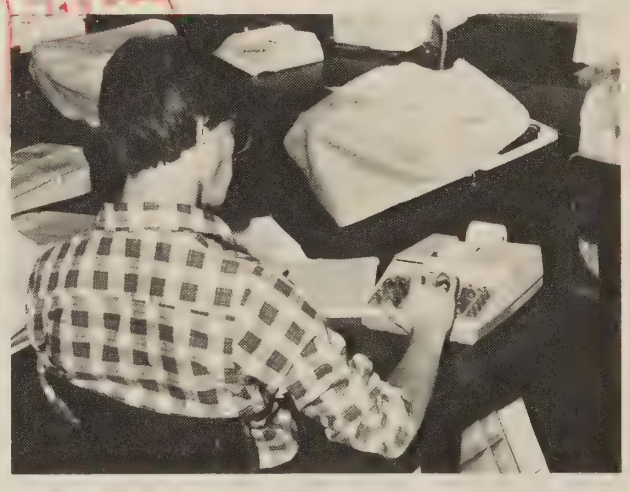

Mrs. Harlow teaches General Business, Typing I, and Accounting I/II. She serves as sponsor of FBLA and Cavalettes (school's pom pom squad). Miss Harlow is a graduate of Longwood College where she received her B.S. in Education.

Mrs. Locke teaches Typing I. She serves as chairperson of the department and a sponsor of FBLA. Mrs. Locke is a graduate of James Madison University where she received her B.S. in Education and Virginia Commonwealth University where she received her M. Ed. in Education.

Mrs. Wood teaches Typing I, Shorthand I/II, and Accounting I/II. She serves as a sponsor of FBLA. Mrs. Wood is a graduate of St. Andrews Presbyterian College where she received her B.S. in Business Education.

AT PLAY

The Physical Education and Health department is comprised of five teachers, Mr. Thomas Carter (Chairperson), Mr. Cla Meredith, Mrs. Brenda Duncan, Mrs. Connie Petty, and Mr. Bob Carden. They expend a lot of energy teaching their basic curriculum. This curriculum includes in the ninth grade Health and First Aid, in the tenth grade Health and Driver Education and in eleventh and twelfth grades, Advanced P.E. These courses have been incoropated into all types of Physical Education activities that span the year. In addition the Health Screening was conducted on October 17th for all students.

This is one department that has seen a minimum of change since 1972. Physical activity has always been an integral part of the curriculum. Sports of all types are enjoyed by the Cavalier — now and then.

THE MARKETING AND DISTRIBUTIVE EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

The marketing program provides the students at Clover Hill the chance to learn and take part in activities which keeps our Free Enterprise System operating. Through this program they can enroll in any of the following courses:

1. Fundamentals of Marketing
   An introduction into the world of Marketing.
2. Marketing II
   Where the students study the marketing concepts which are important to the running of a business and they go to work and apply these concepts to the job.
3. Advanced Marketing
   The students learn what skills are necessary to be a good manager. They specialize in their area of interest.
4. Fashion Merchandising
   The students study the fashion industry and the marketing concepts which keep it striving.

The department consists of two faculty members, Mrs. Deborah Lukens and Mr. Tony Martin.

This year CHHS DECA took first place in the BEST COMMERCIAL CONTEST held during their District-Fall Rally. They won the Clover Hill Vocational Department Bowling Tournament. At the District Leadership Contest they won a total of 5-first, second and third place awards. The students also held their annual Fashion Show. THANKS FOR A GOOD YEAR MARKETING AND DISTRIBUTIVE EDUCATION STUDENTS!!!

I.C.T.

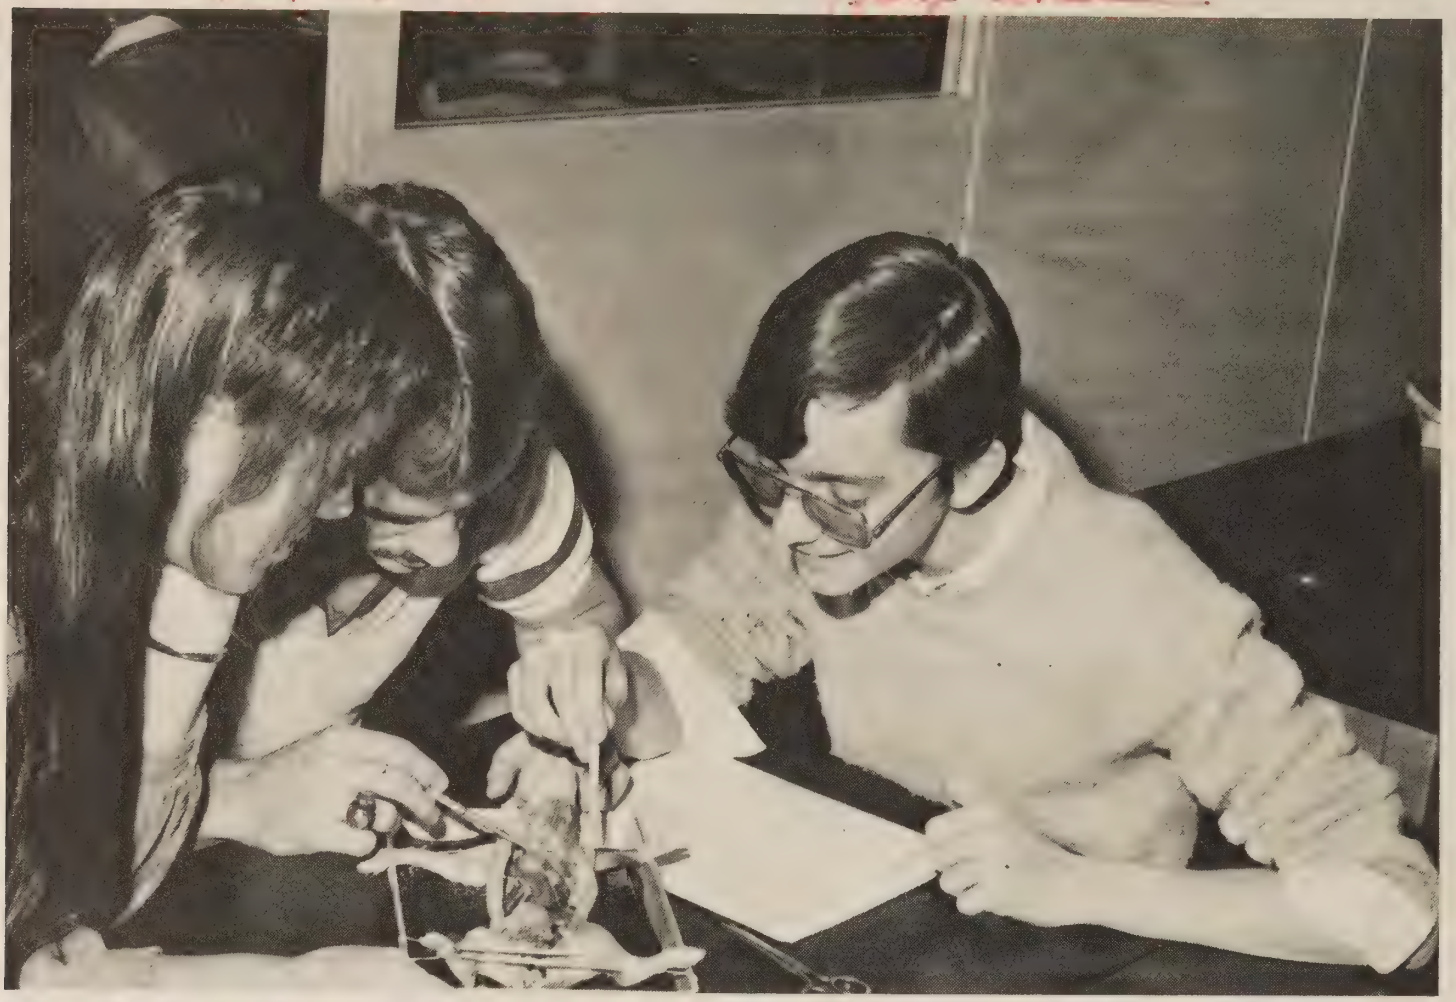

ICT I commences the overview of occupational clusters as well as specific work in their area of specialization in occupation. Course work includes labor laws as they affect ICT students, sources of employment, job applications, interview procedures, employer-employee relationships, safety, income tax preparation, economics, business math, and personality development and social values.

At least 4, and not more than 6 visits are made to each employer to discuss the student's progress and his or her adaptability to the particular occupation. Each day upon completion of required course work, students are released to go to their jobs.

ICT II includes a continued overview of occupational clusters expanded from ICT I, as well as specific work in their occupational speciality. Subject areas include advanced economics, income tax preparation, automation in industry, the effect of changing technology, business law, and personal development and values.

At least 4 and not more than 6 visits are made to each employer to discuss the student's progress and his or her adaptability to the particular occupation. Each day upon completion of required course work, students are released to go to their jobs.

The curriculum used is a lab oriented, inquiry approach to science. This is designed to teach students to think of science as a process, rather than a series of facts to be memorized.
Laboratory experiences are supplemented by the use of speakers and field trips.

Politics come to Clover Hill first hand

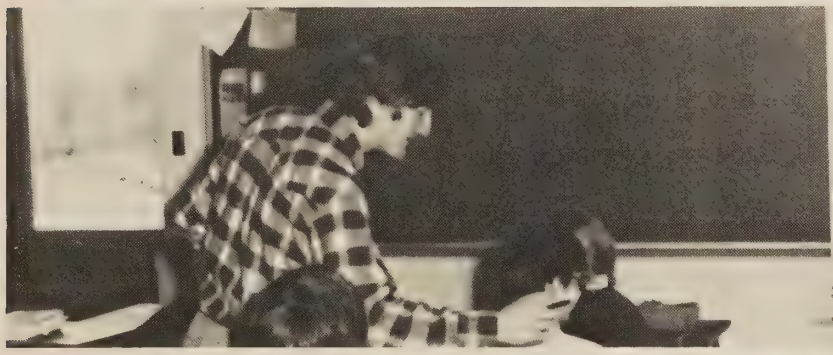

The social studies department is comprised of World Geography and World History for the ninth grade students. In the eleventh grade the students are required to study that exciting course of U.S. History. Finally the academic career of the student at Clover Hill closes, as it has for the last ten years with U.S. Government. There are several special courses offered, for the gifted juniors there is advanced placement Government; for the college bound their is a course for which they can receive college credit. They are allowed to take advanced placement U.S. History. For the ambitious students there are one semester courses offered in Sociology and Economics.

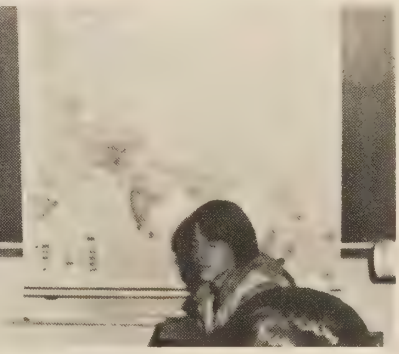

The department consists of Mr. Marshall Pearman, Mr. Jim Pierson, Mr. Willard Strickland, Mr. Ted Salmon, Mr. John Squires, Mrs. Donna Miller, Mrs. Linda Boggs, Mr. Tom Carden, Mr. Gene Barham, and Mr. Bill Pritchett, department chairperson.

During the year the course of studies are supplemented by field trips to Washington, D.C. and Petersburg. The department takes advantage of local elections to give students a chance to become involved in the real world. Many guest speakers visit the classes. This year Mrs. Robb, Mrs. Coleman, and D. John Davis, State Superintentant of Schools, to name a few, managed to take time from their busy schedules to come to Clover Hill.

REFLEXIONS OF

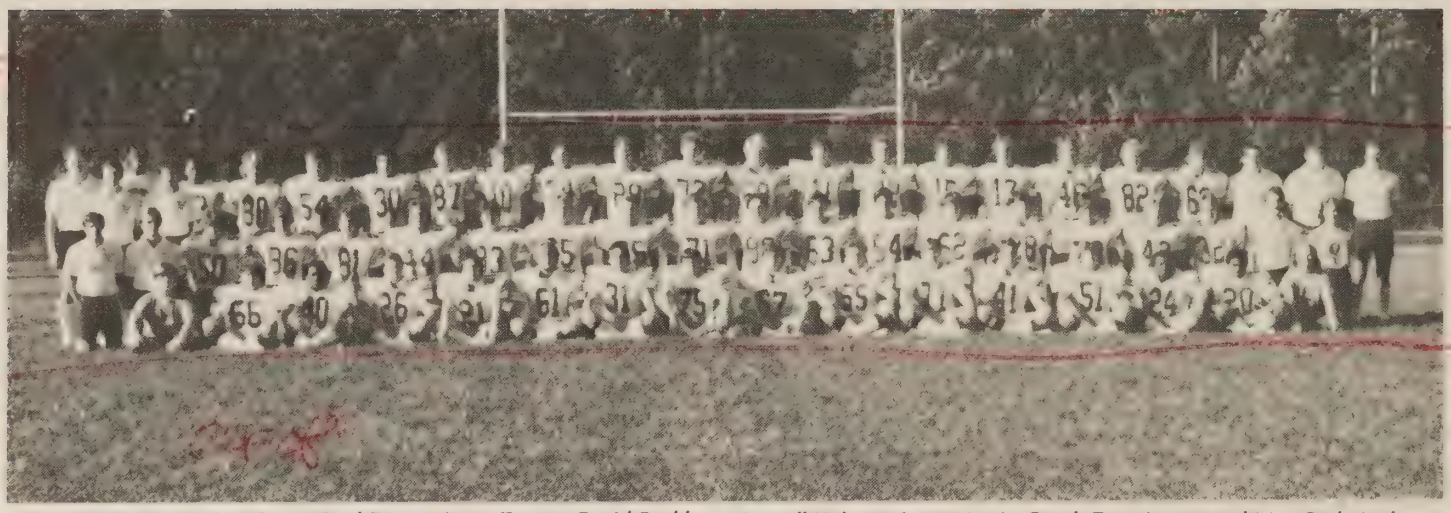

The roar of the crowd, the thrill of victory, the chance to be a winner, these are a few of the reasons that athletic activities endure. For all of the ten years the Cavalier has been in existence; he has marched onto the football field or onto the basketball court or rolled around on a mat, or run around a diamond — all of these with the hope of bringing glory to himself and his school. The sports have expanded. The girl now has a better chance for competition. But through it all the school spirit has shone. The cheers and chants change. The uniforms wear out and are replaced. The once famous name becomes dim. But the heart of the Cavalier spirit lives on in the sports program.

The 1981 Clover Hill Football Team had a disappointing opening season. The Cavaliers lost the first two games — one to Powhatan and the other to Varina. Late in the game against Varina middle linebacker, Ricky Rose, suffered a serious head injury and was sent to the hospital. The next game was dedicated to him which the Cavaliers won by beating their rival, the Midlothian Trojans.

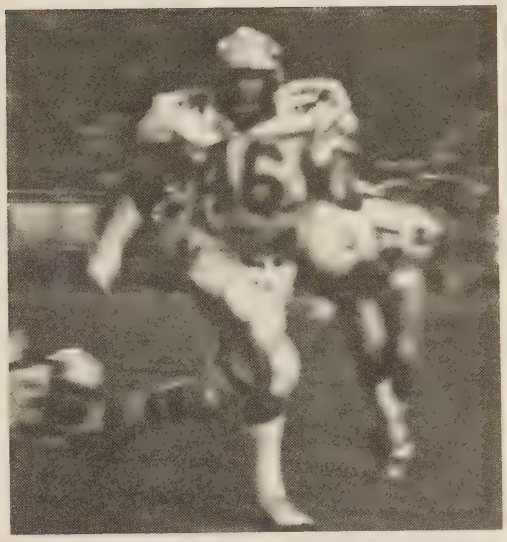

The next game was against defending District champions, the Matoaca Warriors. The game was fought very hard, but all the breaks seemed to go the other way, which resulted in a 19-1 loss. The following week the Cavaliers meet up with L.C. Bird, whom we had never beaten. The team played a very sound game and won 14-6. Monacan was the next victim, the Cavalier defense shut Monacan's offense down, and the offensive surge of the Cavaliers put 14 points on the score board.

The place, Clover Hill High School. The time 8:00 p.m. At one of the field the Cavaliers await patiently, the other end Thomas Dale. The Cavaliers were hungry for revenge from last year lost. The game was grueling and punishing. At the end of the 4th quarter, the Cavaliers were ahead 9 to 7 in a close but sweet victory.

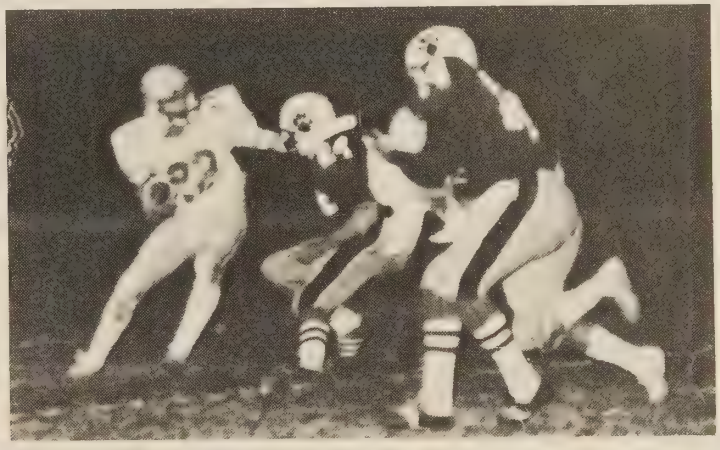

The next game was against Colonial Heights. Things just did not go right at all. The weather was terrible and rain seemed to make the ball hard to hold on for the Cavaliers. The Cavaliers lost 26-0. Clover Hill bounced back off the loss to beat Manchester 18-0. The last game of the season the Cavaliers played Meadowbrook where they ended their '81 season with a win 13-6. Their overall record was 6-4.

The Varsity Girls Basketball Team was very young and unexperienced. The only player returning with experience was René Toney, a three year starter. The Lady Cavaliers started three sophomores and one freshman.

Although the overall record was 4-16 the girls were very competitive down the stretch. Four starters will be returning this fall and they expect to have a good year.

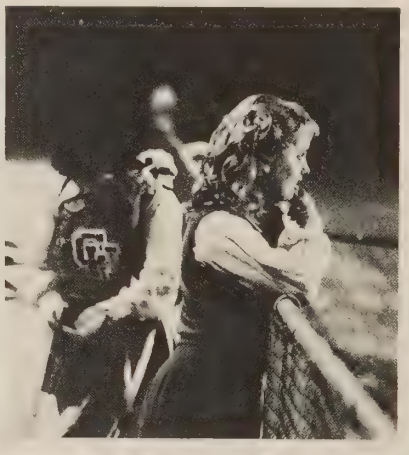

The MVP was René Toney, and the Coaches Award went to Tracey Condrey, a third year veteran of the Varsity team. Good Luck to the girls next year. Coach Carden believes that with all the young girls coming back, the next few years should be very promising.

The 1981-82 season began with cheerleading camp which was held at James Madison University in June. The Cheerleaders performed successfully at camp and received an "outstanding squad" award, which qualified them as one of the competitors for the Nation Wide Cheerleading Competition held at Indiana University of Pennsylvania. There they received a trophy for 4th place in the Nation. When they returned, the cheerleaders spread school spirit at pep rallies, football games, Homecoming and the bon fire. They also supported a great bunch of gals . . . the girls' basketball team. With basketball season came new additions to the squad Male Cheerleaders. These energetic, and gutsy guys added greatly to the promotion of school spirit. All the cheerleaders thank and appreciate Mrs. Lasswell and her support during the year.

J.V. CHEERLEADERS

The J.V. Cheerleaders

The J.V. Cheerleading Squad started off their 1981-82 season by going to William and Mary College for a week of cheerleading camp. While there, they accomplished many new stunts and cheers. The squad left Williamsburg with three superior ribbons and one excellent.

The season started off only a few weeks after school and with the help of Mrs. Lasswell and Ms. England, we all grew together to make a strong and experienced squad. The J.V. squad was helped later in the season by Mrs. Jenkins who gave us some additional help.

All in all the girls had a great season filled with a lot of hard work and excitement. They were all very proud of the number one teams they cheered for all year long and hope the fans will continue to spread spirit for their teams through the years.

Cavalette Squad

"Would you like to buy a spirit ribbon?" This is just one way the Cavalette squad of 1981-82 helped promote school spirit. If you went to any home Varsity football game you saw the squad performing at half time with the band. The squad performed at home Varsity basketball games and added a spark to pep rallies.

In July, the squad went to Superstar Drill Team Camp at University of Richmond. They came home with blue ribbons and the Sweepstakes trophy.

SPRING TUMBLING

The tumbling team was an added attraction to the football field this year. They played an important part in promoting school spirit. The team received a warm welcome from the students and faculty. The tumblers helped the cheerleaders by getting the team and crowd going before each game.

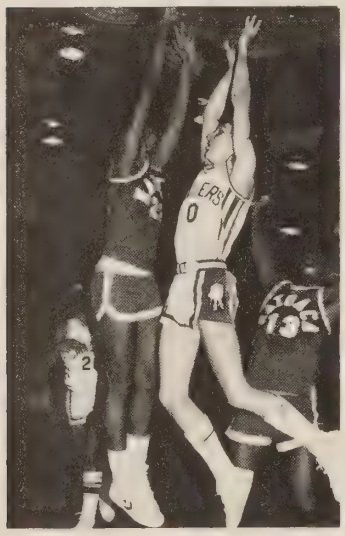

Captain, Laurie Johnson, lead the team through this first year. Some of the members were Juniors, Chris Burnett, Brenda Taylor; Sophomores, Melody Lockhart, Kristen Kouri, Carey Anderson, and Freshman, Julie Gerold and Elizabeth Hancock. Not only girls but also boys participated on this team including Ricky Shires and Tim Morgan. The tumblers were happy to get the crowd going during the football season this, and will be back next year for more excitement.

The boys basketball team began the 81-82 season with a look at experience but with an abundance of spirit, determination, and heart. The team returned only two players Wayne Macomson and Harold Mondrey, who had experience from the 1981 Dominion District and Region I Championship team.

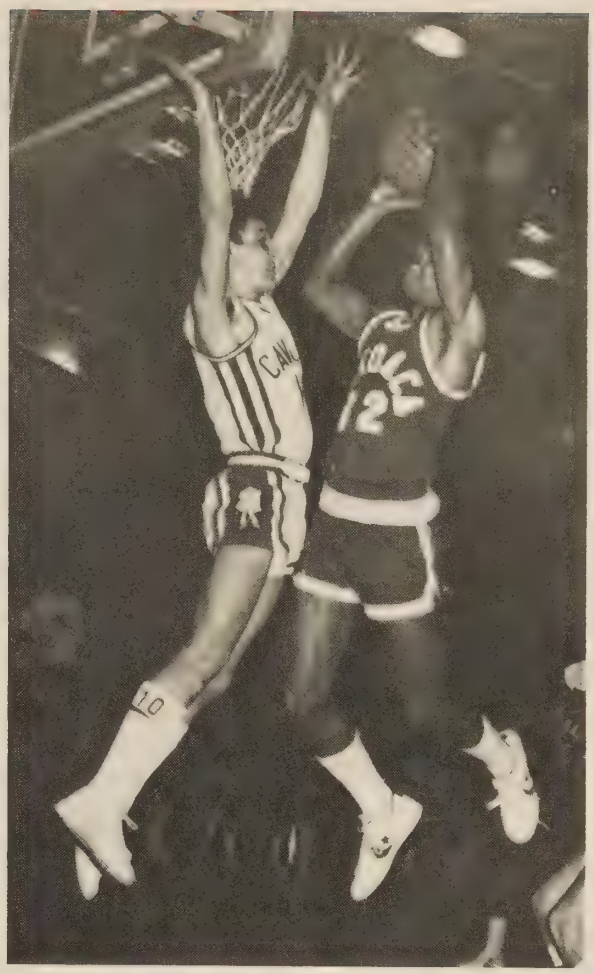

Under Coach Bob Carden the team compiled an overall record of 8-13. The season consisted of many close losses and some very exciting wins. The contributing cause being a lack of height. The teams biggest win of the season came against Dominion District Tournament champion Matoaca on Senior Night. The Cavaliers finished the regular season with eighth place and met top seeded Colonial Heights in the first round of the Playoffs. The Colonials, the regular season champs, eliminated the Cavaliers in the first round.

Scott Pinkleton and Wayle Macomson were the team Co-Captains during the season. Wayne was named to the Dominion District 2nd team and was also voted MVP by his teammates. Guard Brian Blalock received the Coaches' Award.

Coach Carden is very excited about the future with many players coming up from Swift Creek, the Middle School Champion, and the J.V. Cavalier team, which captured the Dominion District Championship this year.

The 1981-82 Cavalier J.V. Basketball Team had a tremendous season. The team finished with an 18-3 record and won the Dominion District J. V. Basketball Championship. The team opened the season by winning its first fourteen games. Their first loss was by two points to arch rival, Manchester.

The grand finale came in the Championship game when they took on the Manchester J.V. team before the finals of the Dominion District Tournament. The Cav's defeated Manchester soundly and claimed the Championship. The Cavaliers displayed great team play and poise as they fought to win the championship. Co-captains Glen Schultz and Chris Macomson provided the offensive fire-power while Daryl Hobson dished out the assists and plsyed super defense. Joey Pausic contributed with clutch rebounding while Brian "The Bird" Barmaster Provided the spirit and leadership that kept the team together. Top players coming off the bench included: Jeff Cox, Brian Comes, Scott Braithwaite and Tim Ilyewellan, who kept the team going by providing a rest for the starters. Other members of the team who worked very hard every day included: Rich Rogness, T.E. Malone, Mark Cummings, Lonnie Boykins, David Ryan, and Greg Harding. Congratulations to the entire team for the hard work and dedication it took to bring home a championship.

The Clover Hill wrestling team achieved a winning record in just their third season. Varina, Thomas Dale, and Bird continued to dominate the district, but the Cavaliers were able to hold their own against everyone else. Seniors Eddie Peed, Jim Norris, Tony Curtis and John Davis gave a lot to the team and left the team with a bright future. Jim Norris raised more than a few hairs of fear in his opponents while placing in the regional tournament in only his first year of wrestling. Tony Curtis was undefeated until an injury cut his season short, while John Davis led the team with nine pins. Underclassmen also make their presence felt as Ross Eggleston led the team in scoring (6 points) Brian Wasko led the team with victories (15), and Patrick Kane was voted MVP for the second year in a row. The team finished the season by scoring 52 points in the regional tournament and gained valuable experience for the future.

The Clover Hill Baseball team began the 1982 season with the goal to capture their first Dominion District Championship in the league's two year existence. As the season progressed under first year Coach, Tommy Carter, it seemed their goal was well in reach.

The season consisted of many exciting wins and a few very tough losses, which resulted in a regular season record of 14-4. This record was good enough for the Cavaliers to achieve their goal as Diminion District Champions. The team put together a winning streak of eight games in the middle of the season to increase their lead over their nearest competitors, Thomas Dale and Varina, to four games. The Cavaliers clinched the title by beating Thomas Dale 14-0 to revenge an earlier loss to them.

The winning of the Dominion District Championship gained the Cavaliers a berth in the Group AA Region I Tournament. The team traveled to Randolph Henry to meet the Statesmen. The Cavaliers got off to a slow start and ended up on the wrong end of a 4-1 score. Coach Carter told the team to hold their head high and be proud because they had done something that nine other teams in the District had wanted to do, and that was to win the District Championship and participate in the Regionals.

Coach, Tommy Carter, contributed much of the teams success to the leadership of his six seniors: Jim Bowles, Robert Duty, Jack Horner, Chris Wiburn, and Ricky and Randy Rose and to the fine attudes of the eight underclassman. Reuben Brookman provided the mound strength with a 13-2 record and an ERA of 1.175. Chris Wilburn and Jim Bowles led the hitting parade. Chris led the team with 20 RBI's and a .469 average and Jim led the team with 3 HR's and an average of .311. Congratulations Varsity Baseball on a fine season.

 Doubleheader.

The softball team had a successful 1982 season consisting of an 11-7 record. This was the second best record for softball in the history of Clover Hill High School.

The team was strong and competitive with a big victory over Midlothian and Manchester in a double heading late in the season knocking them from a tied position for first. They ended their season in fifth place, ranking among the top teams.

The team was not only strong, but young, and it lost only two seniors this year, Robin Lythgoe and Stephanie Eckenroad. A total of five members were recognized for first and second team district and we had more honorable mentions then any other team in the district. They were: Mary Clarke — first team left fielder, Mickey Ford — second team catcher, Shari Mitchell — honorable mention right fielder, Karen Carter — honorable mention short stop, Robin Lythgoe — honorable mention center fielder.

The team members have high hopes of clinching a district title next season.

WE ARE THE CHAMPIONS

The 1981-82 J. V. Baseball Team capped off their season by winning the J.V. Championship. The team got off to a slow start, they lost their first two games, but later the team went on a nine game winning streak to finish with a 12-3 season. In order to win the championship, the Cavaliers had to catch and over take arch rivals, Manchester Lancers. This they did by defeating the Lancers in a thrilling game. Some of the outstanding players included pitchers Alan Lane and David Harris. Infielders, Mark Beck, Joey Pausic, Robbie Mansini, Gary Wasko, and Doug Fiamingo. These players provided great defenses by making several double plays.

Catchers Greg Harding and Kirt Bowles battled for the catching spot and really worked the pitchers. Out fielders Chris Macomson, Kevin Leigh, and James Allen kept the opposing batters in check with fine defensive plays. Substitutes Craig Waters, Robert Smith, Eric Miles, Andy Smith, Rich Rogness, Brian Connelly, and Roy Clark worked hard every day to make the team a success. Congratulations to the Cavaliers in winning the Championship.

The yearbook staff apologizes to the J.V. Baseball Team. The negatives of their season were destroyed because of an improper chemical mix.

SPRING TRACK

The 1981-82 track season was by far a record breaking year. Eight of sixteen school records were broken and the team sent seven boys to the State AA Track Meet at James Madison University.

During the regular season, records were set and constantly reset. The 880 yd relay consisting of Paul Riley, Charles Eggleston, Chip Trebour, and Jamie Fitzgerald broke their own school record five times. The mile relay consisting of Kim Brown, Charles Eggleston, Brian Blalock and Paul Riley also broke their own record three times. Other records broken were: 100m long and triple jump (Jamie Fitzgerald), 200m (Chip Trebour), 400m (Charles Eggleston), and the 800m (Brian Blalock). Not to mention the weightmen including seniors, Clark Barnes and Tony Curtis. Tony, who was a contestant for the State Meet but unfortunately declined because of an injury, was a deciding factor in all the meets placing in most of the meets.

At the District meet records were broken again, but the team finished a disappointed third place behind Varina and Bird. The following weekend was the Regional Meet at William and Mary where the mile relay team again broke its own record and placed second. Determined to seek revenge from the District Meet the Cavaliers went to State with fire in their eyes. Brian Blalock and Kemp Brown set new school records in the 800 meter run while placing rd and 4th respectively. The mile relay set another school record while placing third. The 880 yd relay also set a school record and finished in seventh place. These places enabled the Cavalier boys to snare 16 points, placing the team 11th in the state. Lloyd Bird, the team's arch rival finished with 0 points. What a way to end a fantastic season!

Third — Tonya Burton, Valerie Stinnett, Robin Griffith, Laurie Steadman, Allison Walters, Karen Downey, Tracey Shoemaker, Michelle Johnson, Lynn Leadbetter.

The girl's track completed the regular season 9-1, and then went on to capture the district championship at the district tournament. Five new school records were set: Lora Harold 5'3" high jump, Michelle Cashwell 14.5 100m hurdles, 800m relay Megan Davis, Annie Bryant, Michelle Cashwell, and 200m Michelle Cashwell 25.9.

Senior captain Laurie Householder and Michelle Cashwell led the team with the leadership and great performance on the track. Stepheni Hullman and Karen Downey were outstanding in the distance events: Annie Bryant, Angie Pollard, Megan Davis, and Tralena Janutolo led the team in the sprints and the relays.

Michelle Cashwell won her third straight MVP award and ended her brilliant career with four state appearances and being the holder of six school records.

The Cavalier Golf team got off to a rousing start for the 1982 season going 8-0 before hitting a stumbling block in Colonial Heights at Brandermill, losing by six shots. A double loss to Manchester and Dale followed at Pocoshock followed by a win over Nottoway, sparked by a record setting under par by Jeff Mayo. And the loss occurred to Midlothian at Salisbury evening up the Cavaliers series with Midlothian at 1 and 1. The Cavs were 2-0 against Meadowbrook after this match. Wins followed over Godwin and Bird and Colonial Heights and Varina evening our series with Colonial Heights at 1 and 1. All our losses had been avenged.

In the Dominion District Tournament the Cavalier golfers set two team records. One was a record 149 for the first 9 holes and the other a record 171 for the second 9 holes. Clover Hill finished rd behind Meadowbrook and District winner Midlothian and qualified for the Regional.

The Regional Tournament was held at Brandermill the Cavaliers emerged victorious by shots over runner-up Midlothian. Scott Cullop was the Cavalier hero with a sparkling 78. It was now on to the State Tournament.

The State Tournament was held at Shenvalee Golf Club in New Market. New it would be proven whether the flat land Cavaliers could play mountain golf. After a first round 08. and within reaching the title they zoomed to a round 12 for a 620 total and 4th place.

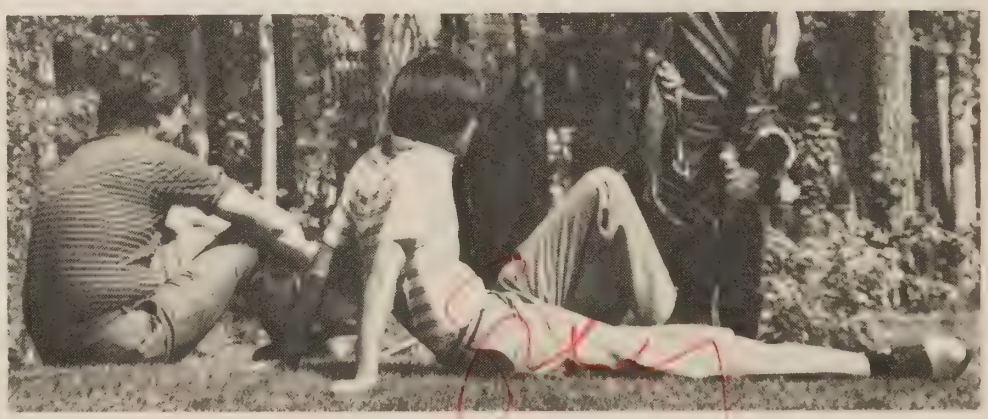

Overall, the team record was 18-5 in regular season and in tournament play, 2nd in the RGA, rd in the District, 1st for the 2nd consecutive year in the Regionals and 4th in the State.

Special mention should go to top players Robert Nussey, Scott Friedel, Devin Householder, a junior, and sophomores Scott Cullop, and Scott Chalkey. Also outgoing seniors, Jeff Mayo, Bill Leonard, Mike Pausic, their presence will be missed. Congratulations Regional Champions. Good Fortune for next year.

The Boys Tennis Team had a highly successful season despite its 5-5 record. Four of the 5 losses were decided by one match, including Midlothian 4-5; Varina 4-5; Manchester 4-5; and Thomas Dale 4-5. The co-captains were Adam Labar and David Rackley. Adam Labar, who was the NO. 1 player, finished the season with an 8-2 record and finished No. 3 in the district Tournament. David Rackley; was one of two serious, the other being foreign exchange student, Olivier Ruppen who was seeded throughout the season.

The team was a young one including freshmen Butch Jenkins. (No. 2 player), Mike Barr, and James Creamer; Sophomores Joe West, Russell Libby; and Juniors Steve Weast, Adam Labar (No. 1 player), Bobby Inge. The MVP went to Adam Labar, who has been on the team for his 3rd year, and the Coach's Award went to Bobby Inge. We expect many years of good playing from this team and many year of good coaching from Donna Miller.

SPRING GIRLS TENNIS

Girls Tennis Team — Alicia Cooley, Lynn Morgan, Kelly Myers, (second row), Nance Milam (Coach), Dristen Kouri, Kristina Wilkos, Cathy Shanklin, Noel Labar, Becky Crowe, Lee Collins, Kim Dove, Anne Haas.

The Girls Tennis team had an outstanding season, finishing with an 8-1 record. Their only defeat coming from the reckets of district champions — Midlothian. The girls were led by Lynn Morgan, who was seeded #1 in the district in singles and Noelle Labar, who was paired with Lynn Morgan, as #1 in doubles. Other team members were: Seniors — Kelly Myers, Suvi Sivaranta, Alicia Cooley, and Sophomores — Kathy Shanklin, Lee Collins, Christina Wilkos, Kristen Kouri, and Becky Crowe.

Lynn Morgan advanced to the regional finals, where her only loss of the season came from a York district player. Lynn Morgan and Noelle Labar also lost in the regional final to Midlothian's doubles team.

With the excellent depth on this year's team, hopefully next year's season will be a winner also.

Soccer! Soccer! Soccer! The Clover Hill soccer team finished 4-5 in the Dominion District. The four victories were against Colonial Heights (7-0), Lloyd Bird (4-0), Varina (6-0), and Manachester (5-2). The lossed came tough as they lost to Thomas Dale (3-0), Powhatan (4-2), Midlothian (2-0), Godwin (2-1), and Meadowbrook (2-1). The team outscored their opponent 28-15. This explosive offense was led by forward Jim Weynand, who had 12 goals and 5 assists. Also helping the offense was freshman Jimmy Kinlaw, who had 8 goals and 3 assists. Both of these players made second team all-district. The defense also did a fantastic job this year with players like Ed Piotrowski and John Lambert at fullback, and quick, reliable Jon Waybright as sweeper. Great help also came from stopper Mike Collins. In the net was goal-keeper Ned Hannegan. All of these players were also mentioned on the all-district balloting.

The team was coached by Gianni Baldini. He was the assistant coach of the VCU Rams soccer team. He also played professional soccer in Italy. With his excellent skills on the field, it is almost certain that the Clover Hill soccer team will soon be a big contendor in the Dominion District.

REFLEXIONS OF

A vital part of any school's development is its extra curricular activities. At Clover Hill the student has never been at a loss to find an organization to match his needs. In this tenth anniversary year the offerings have certainly increased. There has been a continuation of many favorites; while new clubs have formed to match the times. SODA, FCA, AV, DRAMA, KEY, PEP, and the New Art Honor Society have been included to give the Cavalier a current taste of the world.

THEN . . . . . AND NOW

THE SCA DANCES ON

The tenth SCA of Clover Hill started off its year with a coffee-doughnut welcome for the faculty on their first day back to work. All summer the SCA had been planning a spectacular Homecoming for the 10'th year. As soon as school commenced, homeroom representatives were elected and the detailed work on Homecoming began. With the theme "A Decade of Dreams," the SCA sought some memorabilia to make this year's Homecoming exciting. The past nine queens were contacted to participate in the Homecoming parade and all but one did participate. The dance's entrance-way was decorated with a variety of ten-year pictures that were donated by the yearbook staff. The SCA after recovering from Homecoming expedentures, donated funds to various clubs that were in need of aid. They also had a long needed fence installed along the third baseline of the varsity baseball field. All jammed at the Freedom Jam concert in late winter. A concert was given during school and one during the evening. Each was well attended and enjoyed. Ten years in Clover Hill and the SCA is still going strong!

The German Club, or Deutschrerein, began the year by building a float for Homecoming with the theme Swissh Them Away. the float featured the Swiss alps and a block of "chiefs" (cheese). Ross Eggleston, Christina Wilkos and Angie Jones rode the float, which came in 4th place in float competition.

During Foreign Language Week, the German students made posters for display and attended the Foreign Language Banquet. The Club's main money-making project for the year was selling advent calenders made in Germany. Club members sold 120 calenders, which featured German chocolate hidden behind each of the calender's 24 windows.

At Christmas time members helped make ornaments for a Christmas tree at the central office, and then in a German Christmas celebration there with German students from all over the county. German club members also prepared a display in a showcase at Swift Creek, advertising the study of German at Clover Hill. Tammy Mann and Suvi Sivuranta spent a day at Swift Creek with Mr. Houghton, presenting a T.V. commercial in German to English classes there.

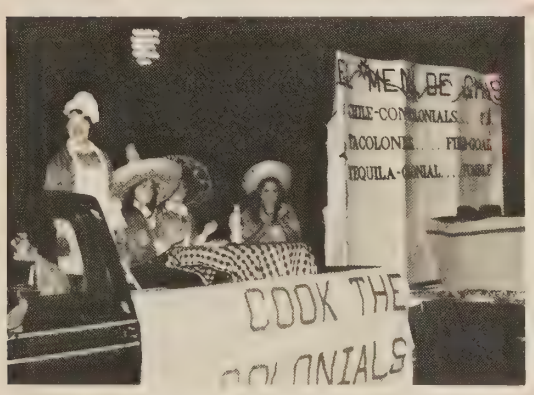

In April, Steve Weast, Tammy Mann, Shelby Hall, Ross Eggleston, and Mr. Houghton attended the VOGS (Virginia Organization of German Students) convention at Randolph Macon College in Ashland, Virginia. The Clover Hill club is a member of this state-wide organization. German students also helped host the reception held at Clover Hill for exchange students in the area. Tammy Mann served as a hostess and Christina Wilkos delivered a welcome message in German for this occasion.

SPANISH CLUB 1982
ARRIBA! ARRIBA!

Homecoming Floats

1981-82 was a busy year for Clover Hill's Spanish Club. The first big event for our 82 members and sponsor, Mrs. Dale Riggs, has always been our Homecoming float. This year the float depicted a Mexican fiesta scene. Our Spanish Cavaliers disturbed the sleeping Monacan Chiefs with music and dancing in celebration of a Cavalier victory. We were proud to be awarded 3rd prize in the float competition.

In early November, the annual Mrs. Smith's Pie Sale took place. This year the Spanish Club sold 316 pies, more than any other foreign language club. Everyone always looks forward to those chocolate eclair pies!!! Foreign Language Week, in December, found us busy making posters, cooking for the banquet and wearing native costumes and language buttons to class.

Second semester opened with plans for the club Carnival held in the Spring. Our "Soak the Joke" sponge throw booth is always a big hit! This year's profits went to support the end-of-the- year picnic at Rockwood Park and the Spanish Club Scholarship. 1981-82 is the first year we have awarded a scholarship to a senior member of the club who plans to continue their education in Spanish.

FRENCH CLUB 1982

The French Club participates in many school activities in which we strive to present French themes to the school. At Homecoming, the float told the story of the French Revolution. With the guillotine at the center, the float won first place in the competition.

Clover Hill was pleased to host three French exchange students this year from the Trinity Episcopal High School program. The French Club helped to give a reception honoring all foreign exchange students throughout Chesterfield County.

At the Carnival, part of the commons was transformed into a French cafe' (Le Cafe' Francais). The chocolate eclairs and quiche lorraine were popular with those who attended.

LATIN CLUB

1982 VINI! VICI!

Homecoming and Picnic Antics

The Latin Club, sponsored by Ms. Rodriguez has been involved in many successful activities during the 1981-82 school year Homecoming proved favorable because the Latin Club float with the slogan "Batter the Chiefs", won first place. After Homecoming, the Latin Club plunged into the pie sales. This fund-raiser helped to pad the treasury and Diane Kelly was the top seller for the second year in a row. Later in the year, the Latin Club sponsored the Certamen at the Fine Arts Festival. The club prepared the questions and supplied scorekeepers. In May, the club picnic was held at Rockwood. Approximately 50 people attended and the activities included volleyball, horseshoes, and occasional jogs to the shelter from rain showers. The last of the activities for this school year included the Spring Carnival. The Latin Club sponsored the "Mythological Freak Show", which included various exhibits of creatures from Roman Mythology. The club also sponsored the Slave auction and "The Commusatio", a drinking bout. The school year of 1981-82 has proven enjoyable and successful for the Latin Club.

But there is one sad point that the club regrets to announce. This is the last year for Connie Rodriguez. She is leaving Clover Hill to pursue her own education. The Club wishes her the best of luck and wants to say we'll miss her.

IBM — Eat Your Heart Out!!!

In the early part of March, Mr. Houghton called together the computer brains of Clover Hill to complete a few "simple programs" in an extremely "long" amount of time — forty-five minutes. James McNabb, Jeff Creech, Bill Conway, and Jamie Johnson won the right to compete in the Longwood College Invitational Computer Contest by having the speediest and most correct programs. The team received four hours in which to complete five difficult programs. Clover Hill met the task — gaining first drafts of all five in the first hour. The team led in the beginning of the statewide contest by submitting the first complete program. Fine tuning slowed the team down and only three additional programs were completed. The Cavaliers took home sixth place in the state and first place in the area, and that was only the beginning.

Clover Hill sent two teams to the University of Wisconsin Contest held regionally at Meadowbrook High School. Team one consisted of: Jeff Creech, James McNabb, and Bill Conway. Team two consisted of: Jamie Johnson, Jerry Kassman and Joe Brame. The contest was of the same style as the Longwood Contest — a two hour time limit in which five programs were to be completed. Team one took third place honors in the region closely followed by our own team two.

Computer Team
Jamie Johnson, James McNabb, Jeff Creech, Mrs. Judy Bowman, Bill Conway and Mr. Harold Houghton.

"I've recently heard of more contests being held next year, and I hope Clover Hill will take part in as many as it can. It's a great experience!" said Jeff Creech, a two year veteran. The future is as bright as the glowing screen of an Apple Computer.

FBLA

FBLA has had a very active and busy year. Members of FBLA have participated in many activities including: FBLA Regional Fall Workshop; served as hostesses for the Technical Arts Fair and the Business Teachers' Workshop; competed in the Virginia State Leadership Conference, the American Management Society Competition, and the Executive Women's International Competition; and sold donuts and conducted various candy guess games.

To help the community, members typed cookbooks for a local women's club, collected money for the March of Dimes, wrote Santa letters for local first and second grade classes, and adopted a family for Christmas and Thanksgiving so they would have something special.

During vocational week, members distributed memo pads, which they created, to each Clover Hill teacher, held a Vocational Banquet, Bowling Tournament between the vocational clubs, and helped with the local Distributive Education competition.

Thanks to all who made this year a successful one for FBLA.

Future Homemakers of America is a very active club in school as well as in the community. Some of the activities attended this year were: State Leadership Camp, State Leadership Conference, and the Dellwood Federation Rallies. We hooted the Spring Rally, conducted fund raising activities, and collected toys for the Red Cross. We held a tea for the teachers during Vocational Week, held a Sweetheart Dance and closed the year with a banquet. The F.H.A. banquet program was in observance of the Clover Hill's tenth anniversary. All ten presidents and teachers of the past and present were there. As well as numerous other F.H.A. officers.

AIASA

The American Industrial Arts Student Association — known as "AIASA" — is a national organization for elementary, junior high, and senior high school students who are presently enrolled in, or have completed, industrial arts courses. The Clover Hill chapter was formed in 1975.

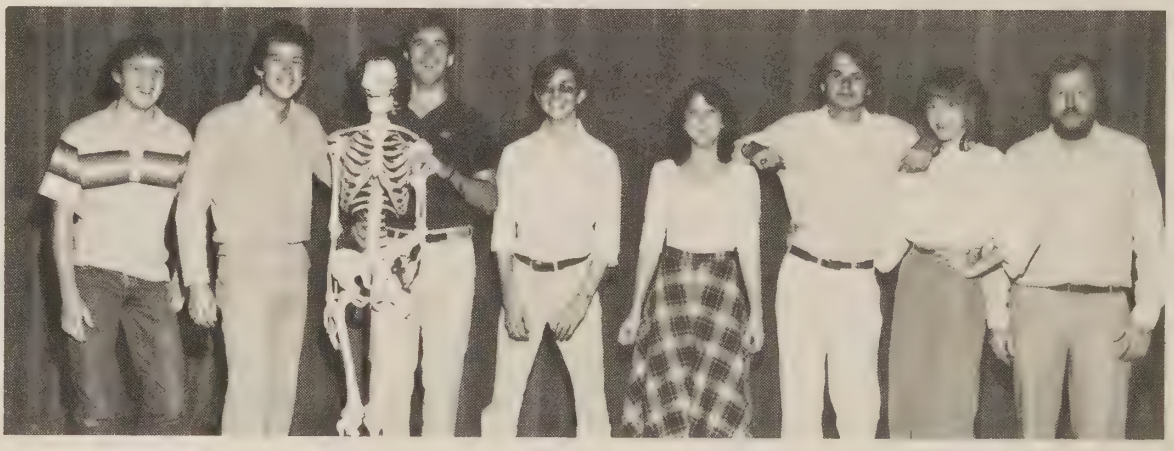

AIASA is designed to develop the leadership and personal abilities of students as they relate to an industrial-technical world. At Clover Hill, the members of AIASA elect their officers and form committees to help them establish goals for each school year. These goals are usually for school and community projects. Also, these goals help to direct such efforts, like fund raising activities, which will permit participation in state and regional functions.

The student members use the industrial arts laboratory to make saleable products to assist them with their fund raising. The tools, machines and materials are used to increase their learning and add to their experiences, while they are working together to participate in school and state activities. The opportunities to study and socialize together permit AIASA members to learn how to better live in a technical world.

This years team is composed of Rich Murray (captain), Mark Patrick, Chip Trebour, Joe Tiller, Sarah Loper, Jeff Creech, Lisa Holden, Laura Gillespie, and Gary Wasko. The sponsor is Mr. Childress. The team won its first round match on Oct. 1 against Jefferson-Huguenot-Wythe. In the second round match which was held on Feb. 18, Clover Hill was defeated by Hermitage High School. All matches were aired live on channel 23 on Thursday at 8:00 P.M.

I don't believe it! Mr. Childress and Chip Trebour express signs of victory after the match with Jefferson-Hugenot-Wythe.

The Battle of the Brains team: Chip Trebour, Mark Patrick, "the ghost of Wendy Link", Rich Murray, Joe Tiller, Lisa Holden, Jeff Creech, Sarah Loper, and sponsor Mr. Wes Childress.

It's on the tip of my tongue! Team members conferr on a bonus but simply could not come up with the answer. The team lost the second round match to Hemitage.

A picture is worth a thousand words . . . Blackmail, blackmail, blackmail

CHESS CLUB

The 1981-82 Chess Club had an enjoyable year consisting of chess matches within the club. All of the members were in close competition with each other, and Keith Haas finished with the best overall record. As Clover Hill has the only chess club in the area we were unable to compete with other schools, but did challenge our faculty to a match.

President Todd Brown concentrates on his match with Mr. Pearman; he finally defeated him.

Mark Honosky and Mr. Childress seem to be more involved in eating than in playing their chess match.

Intent on strategy as usuall, Mr. Houghton and David Washington battle it out.

DECA . . .

The Distributive Education Club at Clover Hill is a very active and enthusiastic organization within the school and community. The 1981-82 club officers were:

Marina Ferris — President
Patsy Gentry — V. President
Lynn Leadbetter — Historian
Rose Rauber — Secretary

Through DECA the students have the opportunity to expand their knowledge in four major areas:

1) Social Intelligence — Through social intelligence, students become aware of their social environment and learn the importance of a co-operative effort among all members. By participating in such activities as the Chrismas Banquet, Installation Reception, Employer-Employee Banquet, and the End-of-the-Year Banquet, the students were given the opportunity to develop socially.*
2) Leadership Development — Through the following activities, the opportunity to recognize the importance of being a leader, but also a follower: Homecoming float, District Fall Rally, Volleyball Tournament, Bowling Tournament and the Officer Training Conference held at VCU.*
3) Civic Consciousness — The student recognizes the obligations to the community in which he lives. The Clover Hill DECA Chapter adopted a family for Christmas. Their efforts helped to make one family's Christmas a little brighter.*
4) Vocational Understanding — Each Student acquires a knowledge of merchandising, managment, and the opportunities available in a chosen career. Such activities as fund-raising, attendance of a job Interview Session conducted by Dr. Gibson, producing a Fashion Show, and Commercial and participation in the Technical Fair helped to develop these skills.*

DECA's success was evident at the District Leadership Conference. In this competition students are judged on their knowledge and performance of Marketing Concepts.

The VICA club has had a very profitable year. Many thousands of dollars were again raised from selling candy. The club gave five hundred dollars to the yearbook staff. The club used its funds to sponsor a retirement reception for their favorite sponsor and retiree: Mrs. Mildred Spencer-Mosley*. The club is busy all year for the purpose of donating their profits to needy causes.*

Some of the VICA officers were elected to attend as delegates to the District and State VICA conventions.

The Cavalier Players dramatics group, first founded in 1972 under the direction of Mr. Del Driver, was reformed this year after a 2 year "rest". Students interested in the art of play production finally managed to persuade a sponsor, Mr. Lewis Johnson, to take on the formitable job of a major three-act production.

The problems faced by the cast and crew of the "Imaginary Invalid" were numerous. All of the clubs' funds were liquified in 1980 to pay for the movie screen currently in the auditorium, and publicity of a performance that, three months earlier, was a fantasy, proved next to impossible.

Due to Mr. Johnsons luck of time to handle the business matters or practices the entire organization was run by students. Mark Patrick, director, and co-president, handled all work sessions and business matters. Jeff Creech, the other co-president and producer, tackled the formitable tasks of set design, and construction, and lighting. All of the sets from years past were thrown out, regardless of condition. We literally had to start from scratch. Mark Patrick's directing talents and the dynamic acting abilities of Pieter Smit were the highlights of the three mid-May performances." Student apathy toward drama will always be a problem, but hopefully our outstanding talent will compensate in the future." — Beth Ehler, assistant director.

Outstanding performances were turned in by senior members Jackie Weir, Diana Moon, Holly Waldridge, and Jerome Flemming.

This year a new club was added to Clover Hill — the S.O.D.A. club (Students Organized to Develop Attitudes.) Students worked with fifth graders at Grange Hall and Watkins Elementary Schools. The purpose was to make the transition from an elementary student to a junior high student less frightening. Every other Friday each team went to their class and talked about topics of interest to the fifth graders. Thirty faithful workers from Clover Hill are to be commended for a job well done.

For nine years a literary magazine has been published at Clover Hill High School, and surprisingly enough, the reaction is always the same, "Really?!? I never knew."

Every year an organizational meeting is held in September and shortly there-after the staff is chosen. Then it is the editor's (Jackie Stauffer) job and the sponsor's (Mrs. C. Driskill) job to pick a publisher and to begin sifting through the stacks of poetry and prose submitted by Clover Hill students. Through the winter months staff members read and reread every article, then it is placed in the "definite yes" pile, "definite no" pile, or the "not-quite-so-sure" pile which is voted on by the entire staff. When the art work are ready to go in the Clover Patch, the real work begins.

Deadlines are set, appointments with the publisher are confirmed (that is if you can find the publisher), and long hours are put into proofreading, doing lay-out work, and worrying.

By the way, those movies you see in the auditoriam about three times a year. That you most of the time like and some of the times don't are picked by the English department (don't blame us), shown and sent back by the Clover Patch staff to raise money for publication. Well, there you have it! Now the only question left is, "Where can I join?"

The Forensics group participated in the Dominion District Forensic Tournament on Saturday, February 20th at Midlothian High School. Participants were: Casey Sponski and Rich Murray, Extemporanios Speaking; Lisa Holden, Poetry Reading; Shari Rutledge, Prose Reading; Kim Forsyth Spelling. Kim won 3rd place in the Spelling Division.

The Sounds of Music . . . MARCHING MUSIC

Clover Hill High School, as young as it is, has built up a national reputation for its fine quality marching bands; Each fall many trophies and titles are added to the already long list, and each year band members as far as Ohio fear the Clover Hill name. Under the first year direction of Mr. Luther Appellthe band did not have as good a year as expected. Unfortunately he was forced to deal dropping music enrollments and an increase in the classification from A to AA. The Marching Cavaliers posted their best year in 1980 as they won 4 major competitions, including the State Championship.

What sets Clover Hill appart is that we perform "corps style" show. Sousa marches were replaced with broadway numbers and dazzeling coreography. Through that entire Marching season only 5 bands managed to defeat Clover Hill, 4 of those from up north. We managed to put way in the neighborhood of 50 bands of all sizes during a three month stretch. This year the inexperienced group took 2nd place honors at the Tobacco Festival Competition downing our rival Varina. Next year promises to be a return to the greatness of years past as Mr. Appel gets acquainted wile the working of a championship high school band.

Never fear, the brains have arrived

The National Honor Society continued to serve the school and its students this year. Under the direction of President, Wendy Long, sponsor, Robbie Musick and the "original eight" seniors, the members immediately began planning tutoring and the fall induction ceremony.

Members of the society are chosen on the basis of scholarship leadership, character, and service. The particulars required for induction include a 3.6 grade point average for juniors (3.4 for seniors), five teacher recommendations, membership in at least two activities and the approval of the faculty selection committee.

The Fall induction brought 20 new members into the society, bringing the school's ten year total to 140. The members then began work on the fund-raiser, the NHS Olympics. The contest was held, very appropriately, on April Fool's Day; and brought much needed money into the scholarship fund.

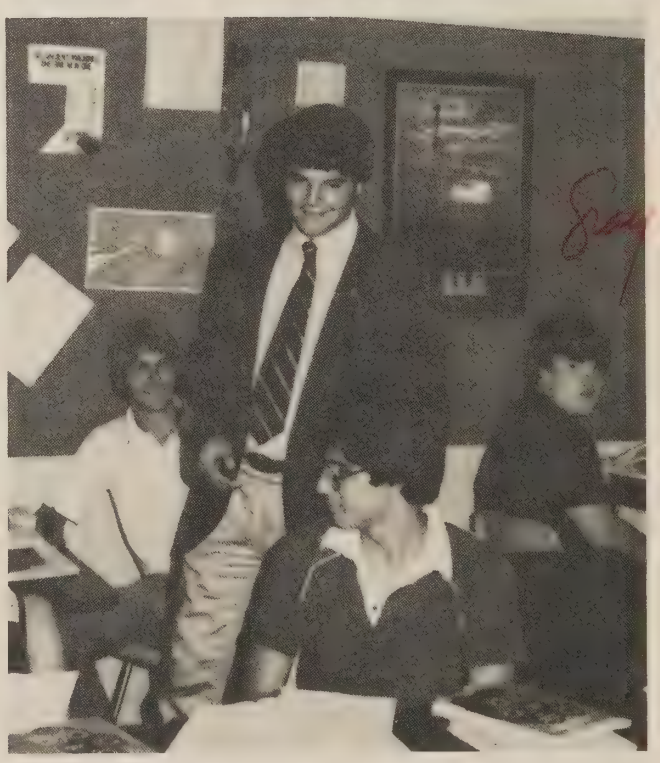

Aside from tutoring and the Olympics NHS'ers had to deal with the spring tapping. Four new members met the strict requirements and were tapped only days from graduation.

The NHS hopes to continue their service to community and school for the following years.

Come on baby light my fire . . . Vice-President, Mike Pausic, solemnly lights the candle that will symbolize scholarship.

Tenth Edition Almost a Catastrophe Thanks to . . .

Well, once again it is time to write another article and I see that this one is about the Ducemus staff. Maybe it's misspelled, it probably should have been DECA. No — OH!! The yearbook staff!!! That explains everything. I think that we all look as silly as we usually do, crammed in here on page 160-161. That is about as close as those editors can get without assaulting one another. (Notice that Mrs. "Bear" Bryant is in the middle.)

All of our staff worked really hard . . . no, that's not exactly right. Some of our . . . no, that's not right either. A select few even lifted a finger to produce this monstrosity of a yearbook. If it weren't for Mrs. Bryant's slavedriving we'd still be on page 1.

Seriously now, we all pulled together and worked as a team, about three days after the deadline date. We hope that all of our hard work has been worth it and that we have put together a yearbook that we can be proud of. Seeing your own name in print is the only real satisfaction you get in this business, so . . .

from the desk of the editor
Jeffrey Creech

Sometime, 1982

In the early part of this year I wanted to edit this book and possibly make it the best in Clover Hill's history... That insane fantasy included meeting all deadlines, taking great pictures, writing interesting stories and captions, and above all maintaining an organized staff.

Those and other dreams died during the following weeks. . . .

BUT DESPITE THE PROBLEMS:

Term papers: "I have to type my outline."
Senioritis: "It is more than three days till deadline?"
Bankruptcy: "2,000 in the red? Is that all?"
Photographic: "I just knew the funny noise was trouble."
Organization: "Where did I put that Senior class article?"
Staff: "Now look, she's only a _____ on certain days of the week!"
Creativity: "I know that I have seen that layout before."
Publisher: "I could have sworn I told them to change that."

I still feel its the best possible book I(we) can offer from amidst these primitive conditions under which we are forced to operate.

The only reason we pulled it off was my great leadership, and if you actually believe that then. . . .

It wasn't easy, lord knows. I felt like having a bonfire in the "hole" or demolishing the "dungeon" and renaming it the pit. But luckily patience, seditives, and a straight jacket kept me from doing anything I'd later regret.

I'll never do it again, I promise!!! It was fun though,

P.S. I WOULD LIKE TO LEAVE THE FOLLOWING TO THE FOLLOWING..

To Jennie Smith & Brenda Taylor a REAL IBM electric typewrighter.
To Tim Hezel the new name of "Timmy" and lots of camera stuff.
To Missy Cooper thanks for bringing me food and keeping me from starving.
To Jackie & Veronica Stauffer a gold metal for freaking me out totally.
To kurt Knaapp my newly revised development chart.
To That Group of Girls that never did any work, a curse- any curse will do.
To That Group of Girls that allways worked, my congratulations on a job well done.
And to Ms. Sharon Bryant good getting it all done next year without me.(laugh)
Thanks gang, I enjoyed it. See yall at Carolina(UNC-CH)

So you think we are the brains in this outfit?? Well Patti Hezel and Jackie Stauffer convinced all of us that they had the brains and talent to pull it off.*

A DECADE NOT

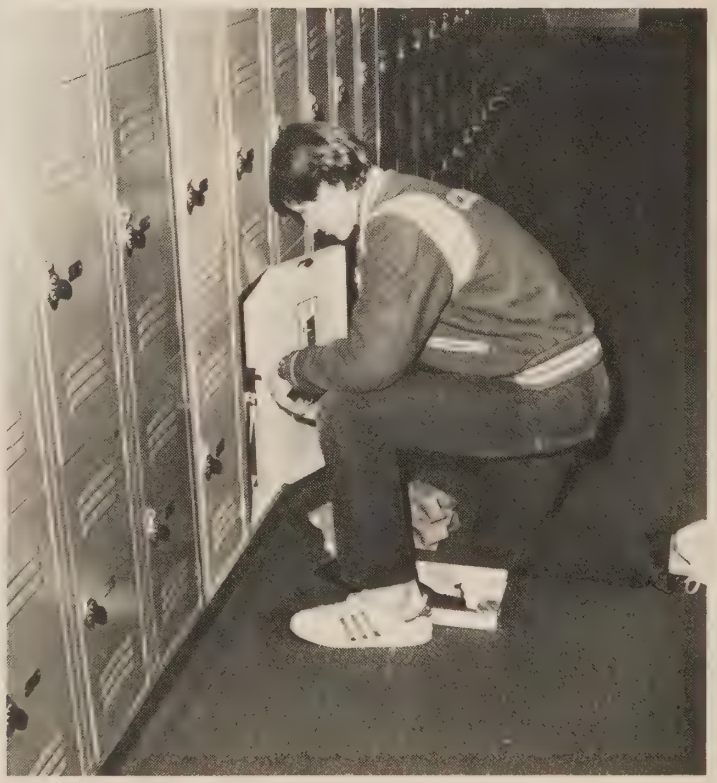

Rolled into these 184 pages are the accomplishments, events, and faces of the past 10 years. They, of course, represent the history of Clover Hill. But, more than that they are a reflection on our future; a reputation of excellance that is mounting quickly.

This book, this history, represents a challenge — the ball is on your side of the court as the saying goes, and the future of our school and your life depends on it. Don't let Clover Hill down.

TO BE FORGOTTEN

Most of us have let a trend or a fad effect some aspect of our life. We bought one of the Rubic's Cubes — even though we don't like to solve puzzles. We got Punk clothes we really don't like.

A trend that has been sweeping the country in yearbook production, especially at the college level is the lack of or total void of words, especially captions.

We, the Ducemus staff, feel that fewer captions lessens the emphasis on the individual and places it on the event.

Before we can make the step into the total lack of stories, and names (except where absolutely necessary), we must improve our photography to an exact science. Currently, our outdated equipment makes perfect pictures impossible.

If you feel captions are necessary for the yearbook fill in your own.

The tenth anniversary brings many things to mind: Reflections of our past, memories of good times, constant change — and the four leaved clover, the namesake of our school. And four leaves are good luck, so we really create a coincidence when we call Mrs. Mildred Spencer-Mosely our good luck charm. Mrs. Spencer-Mosely is the first faculty member from Clover Hill to retire. Therefore, the Ducemus staff feels that it is truely fitting to dedicate our anniversary edition to such a lucky and lovely lady.

For the past six years, she has brought Clover Hill the best of luck. For the past 7 years she has brought the county of Chesterfield the best of everything — her presence as an educator.

She is trained in more fields than the state board of education can recognize. She has taught in over half the school buildings in the county and left a mark on generation after generation of this areas' students. The number is in the thousands.

This year she leaves the field of education for a well deserved, seemingly long over due retirement. To her dedication, wisdom, and experience we the Ducemus staff dedicate our tenth edition to a wise and wonderful MRS. MILDRED SPENCER-MOSELY*.*
